Japanese Troops Move Into China

(International News Service)
TOKYO, May 28.—Premier Tanaka's firmer policy toward China was seen for the first time when 2,000 Japanese soldiers were ordered from Manchuria to Tsingtao, a port of entry to the Chinese Province of Shantung.

The troop movement, approved by the emperor, is intended to prevent the recurrence of outrages like the Nanking and Hankow incidents. Public concern for the safety of 2,000 Japanese Nationals living near Tsinan made the step necessary, it was said.

In a note of explanation, the foreign office declaring the sending of the troops to Tsingtao implied neither unfriendliness toward China nor an intention to interfere in the operations of the northern and southern Chinese armies.

Residents Flee Before Flood In Louisiana

Two More Southern Louisiana Towns Are Swept By Flood Waters

HISTORIC FLOOD IN LAST GREAT SWEEP

Hundreds More Residents Are Compelled To Abandon Homes And Towns

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW ORLEANS, May 28.—Panic stricken residents of two of Louisiana's most southerly flood doomed cities fled to high ground today before the last destructive sweep of the Mississippi valley's unconquerable flood.

New Imberia, a city of 7,000 and the parish seat of Iberia Parish, is under two feet of water from the Bayou Teche. The water is rising an inch every hour and will blanket the city to a depth of three and a half feet during the next few days.

Morgan City, an important railroad center in St. Mary parish, 80 miles southwest of New Orleans, is half covered in some spots under five feet of the Atchafayala basin flood water. Five feet more of water is predicted by meterologists and army engineers for that city during the next ten days.

Populace Stunned

Nestled in a peninsula reaching out into Grand Lake and the Atchafalaya river Morgan City, with her stunned populace of 6,000 divides her feeble energies between escaping from five feet of deluge and preparing for five feet more.

New Iberia and Morgan City are the largest Louisiana cities to go under water.

From Morgan City to the Gulf of Mexico is but 28 miles. The intervening lands of St. Mary parish are almost entirely marsh and cut over timber swamp.

The crest of the Atchafalaya basin flood, engineers predict, will pass into the gulf in less than two weeks. Morgan City, some 20 miles south of New Imberia, will be the last city of the valley to be snuffed out temporarily by the flood. More than 1,000 people have left the city during the last 48 hours.

Hundreds of other families within a five mile circle from the heart of the city have small row boats anchored to their front porches. An improvised double deck sidewalk system six feet above the street lev-

Automobile Crashes Into Barber Shop On East Washington St.

Seven persons had narrow escapes for their lives this morning when an automobile driven by Mrs. Isabel Dolby, of 919 Parkwood Ave., Youngstown, crashed into the barber shop of Don Porter, located in the John S. Crowl building at the foot of Court street.

The entire plate glass front of the barber shop was shattered. The automobile went entirely into the shop, as though it were a garage, and was stopped within a few feet of where Porter was shaving a customer. Several chairs and a mirror went down in the crash.

In the car driven by Mrs. Dolby were her husband, William Dolby, two children, William and Agnes Dolby and Mr. Dolby's mother, Mrs. William Dolby. The car was brought to a stop in the barber shop with no other injury to the occupants than a bad shaking up.

In telling of the accident Mrs. Dolby said that she was driving east on Washington street, when a car came down the court house hill into Washington street. "I was driving in second gear," she said, "the car which came down the hill pulled directly in front of me, and to avoid striking it I turned my car toward

Nurses Receive Their Diplomas Friday Evening

Graduation Exercises Occur At Y. W. Auditorium For Shenango Valley Nurses

REV. GEO. M. LANDIS MAKES ADDRESS

Program Of Evening Is Most Interesting To Large Audience

Graduation exercises of the Class of 1927, Nurses Training School of the Shenango Valley Hospital held Friday evening, proved of interest to an audience of several hundred people, which filled the auditorium of the Young Women's Christian Association. It was the thirtieth occasion on which a class has been graduated from this hospital.

The outstanding feature of the program of the evening was the address of Rev. George M. Landis, pastor of the First Baptist church, who took as his topic, "How To Be Happy, Though Living." His remarks were apt, in keeping with the occasion being observed and highly instructive to the members of the graduating class.

The Hon. George T. Weingartner, president of the Shenango Valley hospital, presided in an able manner and seated with him on the platform were the three graduates, Edna Bell Cabel of Ellwood City, Sara Jane Brown of Harlansburg and Margaret J. Cline of this city; Rev. George M. Landis and Dr. H. E. Zerner, speakers of the evening and Miss McKinney, superintendent of the hospital.

The auditorium was attractively decorated with American flags, ferns and palms. The graduates were attired in the resplendent white uniforms of nurses, who have completed their couse of study and carried handsome bouquets of red roses, the class flower.

Presents Diplomas

At the conclusion of the program, during that part of the program in which the graduates were presented with their diplomas by the Hon. George T. Weingartner, president of the institution, with accompanying appropriate remarks, Miss McKinney, superintendent of the hospital pinned on the uniforms of the graduates, the pins symbolic

American Flier Lands In Brussels During Afternoon

Makes Trip In Plane From Paris; Landing Is Perfect

HUGE CROWD OUT TO GIVE GREETING

Immense Ovation Given To Lindbergh As He Alights In Belgium

By WILLIAM P. CARNEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BRUSSELS, May 28.—Finishing a successful flight from Paris with a bit of aerial flourish, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, heroic trans-Atlantic flier, arrived here this afternoon.

Lindbergh swept down out of the skies over Everry field at 3:10 and a few seconds later made a perfect landing.

Lindbergh landed in the midst of miles of elaborately prepared picket fences and thousands of military guards, keeping the crowds back. At the first sight of the big gray plane in the clouded skies Americans rushed out of the tents which had been erected to shelter them from the rain and a cry of welcome went up.

Above the field Lindbergh performed a few acrobatics, as though signaling his joy at being in Brussels, and then slid down to earth.

50,000 in Crowd

The crowd, estimated at nearly 50,000, went mad with joy when Lindbergh came to the ground in a perfect landing.

One of the first to greet the young flier was the aide-de-camp of King Albert, and then he was presented to an array of Belgian military and naval leaders in full uniform. Then he passed on down the line of diplomats and political leaders, modestly accepting their welcome and praises with blushes.

The clouds broke away and the sun streamed out as Lindbergh came to earth, the silver plane glistening in rays of sunshine. He made his landing near the end of the field and then in military fashion taxied up before the official tribune, where crowds cheered waved handkerchiefs and gave voice to loud "hurrahs" and just as loud "bravos".

There's a town today, not so far away, where there's laughter and pleasantry, for this afternoon is the annual demonstration of pageantry. And the lads and lassies will there depict, Westminster and what it means. And the lads will act and the girls cavort, on the sun dripping, wind blown green. They'll be all dolled up for the May Day stunt, with costumes of brilliant hue, and their every movement will be a part of the life of the White and Blue. You'll be there, yes, so will I, no doubt, for the sun's bright, the sky is blue, and we'll watch them wind round the gay May pole, the weather is sixty two.

Expect Thousands At Cascade Park

City To Be Thronged By Automobilists En Route To Resorts

HIGHWAY POLICE TO WATCH DRIVERS

Cascade Park, most popular recreation center in western Pennsylvania will be the mecca for thousands of amusement seekers Monday night and with warm weather in prospect at least 20,000 persons are expected to pass thru the turnstiles.

According to Carl Shaner, park manager, all of the amusements will swing into operation early in the day and plans have been made to handle the big crowd.

A nurse will be on duty at the Red Cross hut and policemen have been secured to direct traffic at the parking site which can accommodate thousands of cars.

There will be dancing during the afternoon and night.

While thousands of automobiles will travel through the city enroute to the shady nooks and green plots along the Slippery Rock, Neshannock and Shenango rivers operators should be cautious.

State highway police will "ride the roads" and prevent autoists from reckless operation of motor cars and will not dally with persons who have no regard for the safety of others.

the curb, jumped up over it and crashed into the barber shop. I got my foot on the brake and stopped the car just in time to keep from striking the barber, who was shaving a man."

Don Porter said that the first intimation he had of the approach of an auto into his shop was when the front crashed out and he saw the machine coming towards him. He jumped back and escaped injury. The man in the chair jumped at the same time and escaped.

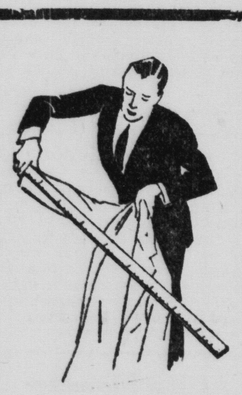

S. E. Brenneman, the man who was coming down Court street, said that he looked both ways when he came on to Washington and thought that he had plenty of time to get across the street. The front end of his machine was caught and damaged by the Dolby car, but he escaped injury. Strange to say the Dolby car was none the worse for the crash, except for a bent fender.

While the Dolby car was still in the barber shop and a crowd was pushing to get in, Porter got his man back into a chair at the rear end of the shop and went on about his shaving as though nothing had happened. "It was a close call" he said "but I'm alright, so what is the use of worrying. I'm glad nobody was injured."

The occupants of the Dolby car were taken into the Crowl salesroom while the car was being backed out of the barber shop. The back end of it was at least two feet inside the barber shop, and how the accident happened without somebody being injured was almost a miracle.

Several persons who were passing in front of the barber shop jumped for their lives and escaped.

Motorists Report Accidents Here

Police Hear Of Number Of Minor Accidents On City Streets

Three motorists reported accidents to the police Friday afternoon and this morning, in which people were struck by their machines. Fortunately none of the persons struck were apparently seriously injured.

G. F. Moser of R. D. No. 3, reported this morning that he was driving south on Mercer street near Market Way, when D. A. Scott of 75 Ohio street, Sharon, driver for the Dollar Cleaning company, ran out of a hat store and into the Moser machine. Mr. Moser stopped and picked Scott up. He was apparently not injured.

F. J. Mason of 31½ North Mill street, reported Friday that he was enroute south on Montgomery avenue, when a boy ran out from the sidewalk into his machine. The boy was apparently not injured and declined to give his name or address.

Bert Richards of 802 Mahoning avenue, Youngstown, O., reported this morning that he was driving east on Grant street near Jefferson street, when his machine was in a collision with the car of C. Moore of 307 North Beaver street. Some damage was done.

E. P. Filban of 525 East Lutton street, reported Friday that he was enroute west on Home street, at Jefferson street, when his machine ran into the bicycle of Albert Pionati of 812 South Jefferson street. The boy was knocked from the bicycle and skinned up but apparently not seriously injured.

came, alone. At his own request no military or civil escort accompanied him when he left the ground and circled over Paris for three-quarters of an hour.

The weather, which had been threatening during the morning, improved just before the master airman took wing, and there was a bright sun to light the silver wings of his plane as he sped over the field to the applause of those who had come to bid him farewell.

Lindbergh's take-off was a daring one, and he gave those who watched his departure a thrill. As soon as he had cleared the ground he turned the nose of his plane almost straight upward and began climbing at a furious rate, while the crowd cheered.

Although Lindbergh had asked to be left alone as he flew over Paris, his wishes were not regarded for long, for four civilian airplanes, chartered by photographers had been cruising in the distance and took up Lindbergh's trail as soon as he was in the air. As soon as these planes joined Lindbergh others immediately took off and his flight took on the proportions of a procession. Although most of the planes were unable to keep pace with Lindbergh.

Lindbergh found considerable difficulty in getting away undisturbed, for the crowds that have besieged him ever since he came to Paris were again on his trail.

Lindbergh didn't get away from Le Bourget exactly on schedule, for while he was lunching in the buffet a small hole was discovered in the wing of his plane and mechanics immediately patched it.

At 1:09 Lindbergh was back over Le Bourget, dipping his wings in a final salute to the crowds, with 10 planes trailing him.

The military escort took the air and Lindbergh turned his plane toward the Belgian border with a final zoom downward through the skies as his farewell to Le Bourget.

Crowds on the ground stood with their eyes fixed on the tiny silver plane and the swarming planes about it until it was just a distant fleck in the skies, and then they left, each with a silent prayer that Lindbergh will have success and safety on his journey.

Big Attendance At Enon Commencement

Enon Valley high school commencement last night was largely attended by patrons of the school and residents of the surrounding community. Music was furnished by the Mt. Jackson high school orchestra. The program, which was published in Friday's News was very successfully carried out.

Town Talk

Master John Edward McPeck, aged 13, of Mahoning township, son of Mrs. Bertha McPeck of 408 North Jefferson street, this city, is acquiring an extended reputation as an artist as a result of a number of original portraits and other paintings that he has completed.

One of his latest and best efforts is now on display in the window of the Reynolds & Summers store at the present time and is attracting much attention. The boy is a natural born artist, having had no training in drawing or painting and this makes it all the more remarkable that he should be able to produce a portrait or painting like that now on display, and which he has named "The Blind Mother". He is receiving training in music and is also showing considerable ability along that line. It is considered possible that with proper training along drawing and painting lines he may develop into an artist of marked ability.

el has been constructed over a large part of the business section of Morgan City. Hundreds of automobiles are parked on one car wooden islands reared on stilts above the street.

Gasoline launches nose in and out of the business streets. In some cases, where the water is shallower, automobiles go chugging along hub-deep in water. Hundreds of head of cattle and mules driven in from the surrounding countryside by the encroaching waters, stand in the streets and roads about the city.

Several hundred hogs find refuge on a string of Southern Pacific flat cars, walled in by a three foot hedge of sandbags pressed to a new service.

Await Rescue

At New Iberia, the self-styled Queen city of the Teche, 500 people still are huddled in the Southern Pacific depot awaiting flat cars, box cars, oil tankers and coal gondolas to carry them to places of safety.

Although the entire city will go under water, the Red Cross concentration camp three miles to the north will not have to be moved. The tented haven of refugees is on high ground, but was crowded to capacity before the waters rushed in unexpectedly upon the city proper Thursday.

Between New Iberia and Morgan City, a desperate fight is being made to save the main trunk line of the Southern Pacific system. Some ten miles of the important New Orleans-El Paso route is under water in the vicinity of Morgan City, despite the fact that virtually the entire right-of-way is along the top of an eight-foot embankment. Water is knawing at the elevation from both sides over a stretch of some thirty miles. Twenty miles of the track is being elevated 14 inches. Thousands of workers, rushed in from every division point between New Orleans and El Paso are laboring night and day to lift the rails, section by section and replace them on top of two layers of new ties. There has been no interruption to traffic during the operation.

Along another ten mile stretch a few miles west, every section of the rail is anchored to piling driven into the embankment.

The water has risen this morning to within four feet of the rails on the Southern Pacific bridge across the Atchafalaya at Morgan City.

Hoover Returns

Secretary Hoover returned to New Orleans at midnight last night from his last tour through the stricken regions of South Central Louisiana. In a twenty-seven hour trip as far as Opelousas on the western edge of the Atchafalaya basin flood, he visited two concentration camps caring for approximately 35,000 homeless, and perfected rescue machinery in the last two cities being blotted out by the maddest, most destructive, of all the Mississippi's proud line of spring floods.

Secretary Hoover spent the day in charge of the state reconstruction machinery, and in reparation of a radio address he is to broadcast tonight from a 40-station hook-up out of New Orleans, summarizing for the nation the havoc of the flood.

He will leave at 10 o'clock tonight for Washington, to present a final report of the lower valley to President Coolidge after which he will return, probably before the end of the week, to Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi to maintain contact for several weeks with the rehabilitation machinery recently set in motion in those states.

Major General Edgar Jadwin, chief of army engineers, will return to Washington with Secretary Hoover.

of their profession and indicating that they are graduate nurses.

The program as previously announced was carried out with one slight exception. The opening number was a selection by the Emery Orchestra. Hhis was followed by an invocation given by Rev. George M. Landis, in the place of Rev. Samuel L. Maxwell, who was unable to be present.

Then followed the violin selection by Mrs. Fred S. Emery. It was then that Rev. George M. Landis gave his address on the topic "How to be Happy, though living." Rev. Landis said that "It has been said that the secret of happiness and success in life is the ability to be in the proper relationship to your environment."

In speaking of the manner in which this affected the lives of the graduates, he said that there were five forms of environment with regard to which he desired to call their attention. They were psychological, physical, professional, social and spiritual.

He said among other things that "psychological environment is that faculty of knowing yourself, controlling yourself and developing yourself. Physical environment includes the maintaining of health under the trying conditions of the life of a nurse. Professional environment includes the problem of being happy in your life work.

Half the time of a nurse is spent in doing for others. Those who gain no happiness from this work, lose the benefit of their calling. There are several ways in which to accomplish this happiness, namely by sympathy with the patient, which shows an understanding of their needs but not to the point of doing things detrimental to their welfare and by making sacrifices for the good of the patient, showing that the nursing profession is a real service to suffering humanity.

Then comes the social environment which must not be allowed to interfere with the work of the nurse but which should afford needed recreation of a helpful character. It should never be assumed that the world owes the nurse a living but rather that it owes the nurse an opportunity of making a living.

And last and most important is the spiritual environment, which controls everything. There is that intimate relationship of God, acquired in the work of a nurse, whether desired or not, that establishes a proper relationship in all phases of the work and proves a blessing to the nurse and patient alike. A spiritual career is essential in securing happiness in the profession and bringing about those things needed by the patient."

A solo by Mrs. Robert E. Fleming was followed by the address of Dr. H. E. Zerner, who spoke especially with regard to the oath or obligation that every nurse and physician takes. It requires, he said, that the nurse do everything possible for the patient and take their profession seriously. At the same time, he said, it was essential that they do not take themselves too seriously. They must have some recreation that they may do their work properly.

There was then another selection by the orchestra after which Miss McKinney affixed the pins worn by all graduate nurses to their uniforms and the Hon. George T. Weingartner presented the graduates with their diplomas with a few appropriate remarks. The orchestra rendered a final selection.

A Pastoral Romance

"You do love me, don't you?" he said, looking into her beautiful face. A loving look was in her eyes as she snuggled her head on his shoulder.

He slipped his hand into his pocket and drew out a little box. Opening it, he withdrew a sparkling cube of sugar. He slipped it into her awaiting mouth and with a low whinny she galloped off to the pasture.

Obeying Orders

A mother was trying to instill in her small son, Willie, the habit of doing exactly as he was told. One day she said to him, "Willie, go and see whether there is water running in the tub."

Willie went and returned. "Yes, Mother," he said, "the water was running and so I turned it off."

"Willie," said his mother, "how many times have I told you to do exactly as you are told? I did not want you to shut it off. I wished to fill the tub."

After several such episodes Willie seemed to grasp the idea.

A later day she thought that she smelled something burning and putting her head out of the window she called to Willie who was playing in the yard, "Look around the house and see if anything is burning."

Willie was gone for five or ten minutes and then strolled nonchalantly back and sat down again to play. His mother most impatient at this delay called sharply and asked if she were correct.

"Yes, Mother," he replied, "it's our house."

Missing Treasury Notes Recovered In Louisville Brokerage

$7,000 In U. S. Treasury Notes Stolen In Washington, Pa., Are Recovered

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 28.—The Washington county district attorney's office announced today that the $7,000 in U. S. treasury notes, stolen last October with $4,650 in Liberty Bonds, from the safe of Attorney Samuel Anstoker here, have been located at a brokerage firm in Louisville, Ky.

On October 25, last, a man representing himself as Lawrence J. Clark, of 710 Iortage St., South Bend, Ind., went to J. S. Morton, a Lexington, Ky., real estate dealer, and offered to purchase property for $3,000, if Morton would vouch for him in cashing $7,000 in treasury notes at a local bank, the district attorney said.

Morton vouched for Clark and the notes later were found to bear number corresponding with those stolen here, it was stated. Clark, according to the district attorney, is said to have paid Morton $3,000 for the property out of the $7,000, and then disappeared. Efforts are being made to locate him to ascertain where he got the treasury notes.

No trace has been found of the missing Liberty Bonds.

WE REMEMBER

FOR a day the nation becomes remembrancer. Somewhere in this vast and diversely-born people there is the binding loyalty of a great common service. If for the many the day has become merely a release from labor, an occasion for self-amusement, it remains for millions of homes a tender retrospect, sanctified by service and crowned by the immortal fulfilment of complete sacrifice.

Turning to gaze down the years of this nation's story, the people see how vast that army is that gave itself. It discovers the dim figures of those who fought the fight in the Civil War, and the even dimmer forms of those who died to give birth to a new liberty. It recognizes with instant vision the wounds left by the World War and numbers on its farms, in its homes and in its shops the great roster of those who have gone to join the bivouac of the dead.

And yet another army—undistinguished, unremarked, perhaps forgotten except in that intimate family circle where memory never dies—the army of those who wore no uniform, carried no weapon, but in civil employment as surely and as bravely surrendered their lives to the public service and added their unnoticed greatness to the sum of national character.

The flags and the flowers will show the story. But the real significance dwells in the life of this people, whose days are richer and happier for the sturdy, unselfish devotion which keeps not merely the flag flying but sustains vital and quick that for which the flag is the symbol.

For these are the ones who builded the nation for our inheritance; the soldiers and sailors, the marines and volunteers, the clerks and the workers of post office and government department, all those of loyal heart and devoted service, of all ranks and origins, of all races and ages, of all degrees of fame and obscurity—a misty, gallant, self-forgetful army, who have left in our hearts the honor they guarded and increased.

The road lies open as this Memorial Day anniversary approaches, the fairways are green, the rivers sparkling; even so, remembrance must be our companion and, perhaps, our impulse to renewed patriotism of the kind that adds to the nobility of our heritage.

MOTOR INSURANCE

AUTOMOBILE insurance is here to stay. It has proved itself an indispensable and extremely valuable part of the amazing growth of the motor industry, as a protection both to the owners of cars and to the public. But like all useful and successful business enterprises, abuses have developed. From the standpoint of insurance companies and of the public, it is asserted that the fact that damages have to be paid by a third party has made careless drivers more careless. On the other hand, it has unquestionably given an assurance of redress, not always otherwise possible, to the victims of accidents.

But not all automobile owners have had their cars insured, and from this has arisen the proposal that auto insurance be made compulsory. New Hampshire and Massachusetts have passed experimental laws to compel owners to take out accident insurance policies on their cars, and there has been active agitation for the enactment of similar laws in other states. In Pennsylvania the legislature at its recent session resisted such a movement.

Compulsory auto insurance would add greatly to the business of the insurance companies. It is a moot point whether it would result in lower rates to the insured or whether it would increase the irresponsibility of drivers and their indifference to the consequence of reckless driving. Much would depend upon the policy of the companies, their willingness to assume responsibility in all cases and upon the methods adopted in making settlements. A more strict enforcement of law upon reckless drivers is also a factor to be taken into consideration.

Son, lots of them drop out before reaching high school. But of those listed in Who's Who, only 8.52 per cent came from this crowd.

Rumors of drops in the cost of living persist but they are pretty generally discredited.

Though the treasury proposes to print more money in the next year than ever before it is not possible that everyone will be entirely satisfied with the share acquired.

A newspaper dispatch declares that tramps are now traveling in automobiles. Probably it is the upkeep of the machine that makes tramps of 'em.

If you own property in New Castle you are a stockholder in New Castle. If the company does not make good your stock is not worth anything. The better you make and boost your home city the better it will be and the more your stock will be worth. It only takes a few hours to go to Washington on the fast trains of today from most any point in this country. And yet some men work all their lives trying to get there and never make it.

Some years ago the Hints and Dints Man had occasion to want to go to Ellis Island while he was in New York. Frederick A. Wallis was emigrant commissioner in the port of New York then. He very graciously gave us the pass we needed to make the trip on a government launch. We did not forget this and we made it our business to meet him at the train when he reached New Castle on Thursday evening and offered him any service we could render him. It was a pleasure to meet him again. Doing good acts always have their reward even if it some times takes years before a chance comes to do them.

We read of a jurist who said that dancing mothers are the cause of many domestic tragedies. The way some of them do the latest dances is almost an invitation to murder.

After some of the notorious murder trials are over and the conviction has been made the lawyers for the criminal gets busy and before he gets through with his stuff one would think the judge, jury, witness and the whole smear were just that many separate and distinct pieces of cheese. If we were a judge there would be murders right in the court room and the victims would be lawyers.

Dear Hints and Dints: Until one morning recently I had supposed the only street sight capable of rousing every evil instinct in my nature was a pair of bare knees, a bobbed head and gobs of paint. But when I met a woman carrying a bulldog on her arm, wrapped in a blue and white baby blanket, a bow of baby blue ribbon around its neck, the things I thought would not look well in the old column.

No one in this world has a deeper affection for dogs than I have. I love them far too well to break their happy, joyous spirit by trying to humanize them.

Please allow them to frisk in the fields, tree the cat, bury their bones and live a dog's life as nature intended them to.

Tell them your joys and sorrows while they lay their head in your lap, and reflect your every thought and feeling.

Since the flood on the Mississippi a good many people have been after a special session of Congress to donate tax money for the flood sufferers and also proposing many and various kinds of remedies. There have been floods on the rivers before, but never none as severe as this. Perhaps there won't be in another hundred years. The thing to do is to aid the flood sufferers and after the flood subsides definite plans can be made for making the Mississippi flood proof.

One thing that would help make New Castle as good a city as we know it is and as others boast it is, is to fixe some of the downtown streets. Several of the important arteries of business are in frightful condition and there have been enough ruined clothes and broken auto springs this month that the cost of them collectively would pay for repaving the streets. Let's get New Castle business section dressed up and it will be much more inviting to everyone.

The London Daily Mail says this country "dreams of creating a United States 'world telephone monopoly." The Mail is much annoyed because our able telephone gentlemen have been buying companies in South America and elsewhere.

Once we shivered with terror at the idea of a business as big as a big country. Soon we shall have businesses as big as several big countries.

Uncle Sam is planning to make smaller money. The bills will be a third of an inch narrower. Uncle Sam, on paper and printing will save $2,000,000 a year.

Russia's Bolshevik government, highly indignant, learns that several can play at propaganda and add boycotting to it.

Russia's government, youthful and enthusiastic, believes it is a solemn duty to convert the world to communism. The plan, according to other governments, is to sow discontent in foreign countries to promote revolution.

It would be more tactful, and safer for Russia, if she would first prove the success of her ideas at home, then offer them abroad.

Britain, having cut off diplomatic relations with Russia, starts propaganda that promises to spread. Already Canada will have nothing to do with Russia. France and Italy are expected to follow suit.

Russia's statesmen are brilliant men, but they may learn it is unwise to make many enemies at one time.

When Count Witte was in this country, representing Russia in the peace arrangements with Japan, he told this writer the national monopoly of vodka, the Russian drink, 40 per cent alcohol, and 60 per cent water, which he originated, gave a profit just big enough to pay the cost of the Russian army.

It would interest Witte to know that the United States tax on cigarettes just about pays the cost of our army. Uncle Sam collected $227,000,000 in ten months this year from cigarette smokers.

A full fiscal year's cigarette tax will about pay all army costs.

Lindbergh has good ideas. An enthusiastic French lady intended to spend 150,000 francs for a cup to celebrate his flight. He accepted gratefully and asked that the 150,000 francs be spent instead on children of French aviators who lost their lives promoting aviation. Lindbergh is a good representative of this country in Europe.

Lindbergh, you are told, is Swedish, English and Irish. Those may be his blood strains, but you may be sure that he, like all others, has many other strains.

Danes, Normans, Basques and many Scandinavians left their blood in England, and it has become well mixed. The main thing, as regards race, is the fact that Lindbergh belongs to the tribe of eyes light in color, blue or gray.

Blue or gray-eyed men are most numerous in the world's "1,000 greatest."

Memorial Day.

Some lived the battle through,
Some in its carnage fell,
And left to me and you
Their stirring tales to tell.
Long grows the noble roll
Our history's cherished scroll.

Not to the evil thing
From which our heroes rose
Today our flowers we bring
We come, remembering those
Who dared to fight and die
Our liberty to buy.

There was no glamor there
Amind the thundering guns
War's face is never fair,
All these oud glorious sons
Learned long before they fell
What poets seldom tell.

These are our heroes' graves
Where they in glory sleep!
Above them all there waves
The flag they died to keep.
And in the joy now ours
We come with memory's flowers.

Not to the roar of guns
Or sabres' cut and swing,
But to our hero sons
May blossoms now we bring,
God grant that never more
Need cannon flash and roar.

MEMORIAL DAY

Maeterlinck in his "Blue Bird" has a beautiful conceit that the dead come to life when we think of them. Our thinking of them brings them to life.

Memorial Day is consecrated to those who are dead, mainly to those who have given their lives for their country.

When we think of all the boys that marched gaily some years ago in France and of the high ideals that inspired most of them, many of us would like to call them to life again. They took with them to their graves how much hope and promise! They left behind them what vacant spaces in our lives!

It is as little as we can do to call them all into life again on this Memorial Day.

We are all too apt to forget. The current of our interesting environment sweeps us on and we do not recall them, the high hopes of yesterday and the sacrifices that we made for them. Let us pause once in awhile and bring back those smiling faces, the young lives that were thrown away.

We should not forget the lessons that war taught us, nor that Europe is staggering under an economic burden, struggling desperately to escape from its load of debt.

When we think back upon the multitude of lives sacrificed in the great conflict we are impressed with the futility of battles.

There must be some other way of settling differences of opinion besides sacrificing the flower of our youth. There must be some process of law and orderly procedure by which certain matters can be straightened out without heaping up hecatombs of dead to prove our case.

None of us would go back to the age of dueling and yet national honor is no more sacred than personal honor.

We must learn to arbitrate questions of honor in the courts quite as well as inferior questions. There can be no orderly justice unless all parties to a dispute are ready to sacrifice something.

A contribution from each nation at the beginning of the war would have been better than the enormous contribution, bringing us almost to bankruptcy, at the close of the war.

There is much, therefore, to be said for the advantage of turning our memories back for awhile and making live again in our minds those who have gone.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

I WANNA GO HOME

A Youngstown, O., citizen spent last Winter at Coronado, California. He drove West with his family last Fall in his Willys-Knight automobile, but this Spring he wished to return by railroad, and he engaged two men to drive his automobile back to Youngstown. One of the men met with an accident, which made it impossible for the two to make the journey. It then became necessary to engage someone else to drive the car eastward. An attorney in San Diego was asked to find a man to do this, and he published the following advertisement:

"Have opportunity for responsible party to drive automobile from San Diego to Ohio for delivery of same to owner there; 1924 Willys-Knight sedan in perfect mechanical condition; good rubber. If interested, communicate with Blank, attorney."

The attorney was not prepared for the attack of applications. The idea of obtaining cheap transportation back to Ohio interested so many former residents of Ohio that the attorney received the first day after this advertisement appeared, more than a hundred applications from former citizens of the Buckeye State for opportunity to conduct the automobile safely over the Rocky Mountains. Naturally the attorney was, in making the choice, interested in the character of the individuals seeking the job. He asked one young man whether or not he had enough money to pay for oil and gasoline, for food and lodging on his way. He replied that he had enough to pay for the oil and gasoline, and as for food and lodging, it wasn't going to take him long to get back to Ohio. He evidently expected to vault over the Great Divide at not less than forty miles an hour. He didn't get the job.

Another chap was homesick to see his people. Another wanted to see the old town again before he died. All from Ohio, except one from Butler, Pennsylvania, and Youngstown isn't far from Butler.

It was thought by some members of the Pennsylvania Society that the managing editor of the News made a faux pas when he said that the reason so many Pennsylvanians boosted for California was because they hadn't the price to pay for railroad fare back to Pennsylvania. That statement may not have been the most advisable statement to make, but it was nevertheless absolutely true, for the Pennsylvanians in California are no richer than those from the state of Ohio.

California is a very fine state, and Southern California very beautiful, but it will require a great many years of hard work to make Southern California self-supporting. There is plenty of work to do, there is plenty of material at hand with which to accomplish great things in California, and these great things will be ultimately accomplished, but just now there are a lot of chaps who would like to go home.

Yes, they "wanna go home" but no sooner are they there when they "wanna go back".

MY TOWNS—AKRON.

Everybody knows Akron. I can name a dozen towns as big as Akron that nobody outside of a small circle or limited trade has ever heard of. My native town, Wichita, is almost as big as Akron, and has at least as distinctive a name. Yet I have never yet found a long distance telephone operator outside of kansas who would believe me that there is such a town. Yonkers, where I now live, is fully as large as Akron, I believe. Well, there isn't much difference anyway. West of Pittsburgh, I never met anybody who had ever heard of Yonkers.

Why does everybody know Akron, then? I believe that one of the immediate reasons is that Akron has a virtual monopoly on one of the most important industries in the world. You see the name of Akron on almost every automobile tire.

But why is Akron the world's greatest rubber city? I've looked all over the hills and valleys around about Akron, and I've never seen a single rubber tree there. The town is as far from Brazil and Java and Liberia as is Dayton or Louisville or Memphis.

Akron was just another Ohio town, with its own share of the railroad traffic going west, until Charles Goodyear, of New Haven, Connecticut, in 1889, discovered that rubber burned in combination with sulphur, might be made a useful article of commerce. Goodyear never made money out of his discovery, and died poor, but his work laid the foundation of a great industry—and for Akron.

Now, to the credit of Akron business men, be it said, the business that was established on a very small scale in that city a long time ago has never been driven out of the town or allowed to feel that it isn't welcome and important. There are many rubber factories in Akron now.

I have known cities where the chamber of commerce was organized to keep new business out of town. It sounds ridiculous, but the explanation is simple. Those in control of the businesses already existing in those towns also control the chamber of commerce, and so there is agreement to keep competition away. Some cities have been kept small by such tactics. Not so Akron. Organized business there welcomes more business, more activity, more competition. It is one of my favorite towns.

Twenty-Nine Liquor Violators In Altoona Nabbed In Big Raid

Federal Dry Agents Motor From Pittsburgh To Altoona For Big Raid

By ROBERT W. GINSBURG,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALTOONA, Pa., May 28.—Federal prohibition agents working under the direction of W. Bruce Murray, assistant federal prohibition administrator, swooped down upon this city today, arresting twenty-nine persons, ten of whom were women.

The dry agents charged that all persons arrested were bootleggers. The agents destroyed 422 gallons of wine, 113 quarts of home brew and a few quarts of moonshine.

The majority of arrests were made in the foreign quarters. A few raids were staged in the heart of the business district, however, in one of the latter the proprietor of a hotel, a porter and another man were caught in the net.

Murray praised the manner in which Altoona police co-operated with the federal agents who came here early this morning from Pittsburgh in motor cars. The raid was one of a series planned throughout the territory under the jurisdiction of administrator John D. Pennington.

Murray expressed the belief that some of the prisoners taken in today's raids had been caught before violating the dry law.

In one instance the dry agents were forced to break apart a table leg to find liquor hidden inside. At another place a smoking stand was utilized to camouflage a jar of wine.

The raids were made so suddenly that many of those arrested were routed from their beds only to find that the dry agents already had entered their houses and confiscated liquor.

Consideration was shown the prisoners, however. One woman, bedridden, was alone in her home with three small children when the agents entered. Although the raiders found what they said was a quantity of home brew, the woman was not molested. A warrant was issued for the arrest of her husband, a mill worker.

Sunday Is Safest Day For Motorists

So Declares State Department After Analysis Of Large Number Of Accidents

Sunday is the safest motoring day although 24½ per cent of the week's travel occurs on that day according to an analysis of travel on State Highways made by the Pennsylvania State Highway Department. Most accidents happen on straight roads and reckless driving stands out as the chief cause.

Because the actual number of accidents is greater on Sunday than on any other day, the belief has always persisted that Sunday was the most dangerous to motorists but the result of the Department's survey shows that this impression is incorrect.

Monday is the most risky day and Saturday follows closely in the percentage of accidents.

July, August and September, although months of heavy traffic are low in the hazard table as compared with January and March. October offers the least risk of any month.

Exactly one-third of all accidents studied took place on straight sections of highway. More mishaps occur on road crossings than on grades and a little less than one third happens at curves, fewer on sharp curves than on light ones.

Fifty-eight per cent of all accidents are attributed to reckless driving. Wet roads have 27 per cent attributed to them while the toll of freshly oiled roads is as low as 0.015 per cent. Passenger vehicles are involved in 85 per cent of all accidents, trucks 11 per cent and all other vehicles including motorcycles and horse drawn vehicles made up 4 per cent.

"MEMORIAL DAY"

All strife and rancor,—buried low,
Engendered in the long ago.
Your duty, long since, so well done,
Stands bold and clear, excelled by none.

When Nation needed men and do'ers—
Unbending loyalty,—was yours,
When in the throes of Civil War—
You came with speed, from near and far.

You left fair homes, and none did lag.
Your strength and honor,—upheld the flag.
You gained the victory,—won the day.
You made secure—the U. S. A.
Our prayer for all of you—is this—
While here on earth—contentment, bliss,
Long life with peace,—thus ever be,—
Then,—Heavenly joys,—eternally.

EDWARD J. DAVIS.

"Cleanse yourselves from all filthiness of the flesh"—

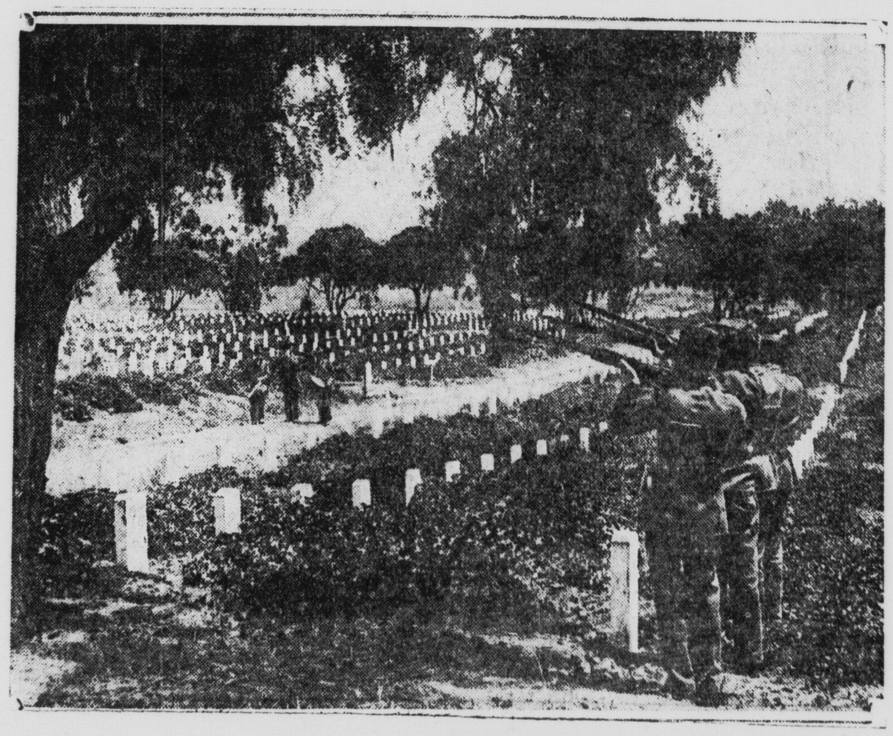

II Corinthians 7:1. Present your bodies a living, sacrifice, Holy acceptable unto God. Romans 12:1. Abraham Lincoln said "A cigar is a bundle of filthy weeds with a bon-fire on one end and a fool on the other." Men of such high standing and esteem making such remarks force me to think tobacco contains nicotine, which is a deadly poison. I believe that if the Lord wanted men to smoke, he would have placed a chimney on top of their head. The use of tobacco is a filthy habit, and all people who refuse to obey the Lord fulfill the scriptures in II Timothy 3:1-5.

L. Schmidt, Evangelist, will speak in the Bible House Mission, 10 E. North Street, between Mercer and Jefferson Streets, New Castle, Pa., Sunday afternoon, 3:00 o'clock. You are welcome. Revelations 22:17. Some people bring in an excuse that because great men of the world use tobacco it seems all right, but God's answer is that He did not call the Great or the Wise, but those that will obey Him. Matthew 7:13-14. Hosea 10:13. Daniel 3:16-18. Acts 4:19. Jer. 6:16. 2 Cor. 5:17. Prov. 30:5-6.

It is the eternal struggle between right and wrong, between saved and unsaved, between clean and unclean, between holy and unholy. Now my dear people of New Castle if your preacher or elder, or deacon or whosoever uses tobacco and defiles his body, if you are inclined to believe that it is all right to use tobacco, let me entreat you to obey the word of God. Think nothing of me; take no thought for the religious fate of any man, whosoever but come back to the truths that are in the Bible. You may say or do anything to me, if you will but keep the sacred word of God. Tobacco users, and tobacco dealers may refuse to support me, dislike and slander me, it is nothing; I am nothing, but do not destroy the immortal word of God. The only power of Salvation to save humanity from all filthiness of the flesh.

LINDBERGH IN THREE YEARS ON FARM WORKED UP UNPRODUCTIVE PROPERTY UNTIL IT PAID FOR FLYING LESSONS

Artist depicts incidents in the life of Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, New York-Paris air hero, when he "worked" the family farm at Little Falls, Minnesota.

[This is the third of ten instalments of the life of Charles A. Lindbergh, most talked of man in the world today, as told by his mother, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, to Miss Bonita Witt, one of the star writers of Central Press.]

By BONITA WITT

[Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.]

III.

It was during the war years that Charles A. Lindbergh, hero of the New York-Paris non-stop flight, first got a taste of farming. His father, Charles A. Lindbergh, representative in congress from Minnesota, owned what around Little Falls, Minn., is known as a "fancy" farm, near the Mississippi river. Between sessions of congress, the elder Lindbergh, who was born in Sweden in 1860, found time to putter about the farm. The ground was stony and unproductive.

Charles was ready to begin his college course, but his parents believed he was too young to enter a university (he was about 16 or 17), and he was too young for military service. Young Lindbergh, restless and wanting to work, knowing scarcely anything about agriculture, decided he could put the farm on a paying basis.

For three years he "worked" the place and at the end of that time the farm was paying dividends for the first time. After he had proved his ability as a farmer Charles decided he'd quit the soil as he had no intention of becoming a farmer.

Lindbergh passed a great deal of his time out-of-doors on the Minnesota farm, roaming among the great white pines which make the section of the state one of the beauty spots of America.

He liked to wander along the banks of the upper Mississippi river alone with his dog. He usually had a pet of some sort to accompany him on rambles through the woods.

During the hectic days when Lindbergh was overhauling his "ship" in New York preparatory to his trans-Atlantic flight, he found time to make friends with Patsy, an inquisitive cat which had wandered into his hangar. He desired to take Patsy to Europe in the "Spirit of St. Louis" but later decided weather condtions might prove too severe for the animal. Patsy, therefore, remained in New York while "Lucky" made his dash to Paris.

In his earlier years Charles displayed considerable interest in boats. He built a craft himself and with his dog spent many an hour sailing the Mississippi.

Mrs. Lindbergh didn't object to her son's interest in boats, but she didn't share his enthusiasm for horses. She relates: "He liked horses too well for my nerves, for he soon began to do 'broncho-busting.' He became proficient in that. Then, the motorcycle and the automobile took his fancy."

When "Slim" finally decided to quit the farm he had earned $500 which he later used to pay for his first flying lessons.

Mrs. Lindbergh's blue eyes shine as she says, "You see, I don't want any of the glory of my boy's flight. I don't believe I'm entitled to it. He did it all himself. Since he has been old enough to earn his way, Charles never has taken a cent from me. Once when Charles was contemplating an undertaking which required ready money, we said to him, 'Son, we have some influential friends who would be glad to aid you. Don't you want us to speak to them?'

"'I don't need that sort of thing,' was the answer."

From childhood to manhood—self-reliant!

It was merely the normal course of his nature to fly alone across a continent, then over a trackless ocean.

Plan Blessing Of New Cemetery On Monday Morning

Weather permitting, the new cemetery of St. Nicholas Greek Catholic church, located on Butler avenue extension, a new stone cross erected in it, will be blessed on Monday, Memorial Day, at ten o'clock a. m. daylight savings time. Beautiful and impressive ceremonies will be carried out in the blessing of the new burial ground and stone cross.

As planned, weather conditions not interferring a solemn high mass will be celebrated on the cemetery grounds at ten o'clock that morning in which a number of visiting priests of the Greek, Latin and Maronite Catholic Rites will participate as well as all members of St. Nicholas parish.

Rev. John Krusko, D. D. and Rev. John Hromyak will deliver the eulogy of the occasion. In case weather conditions should interfere, the celebration of mass will take place in the parish church. South Mill and Reynolds streets and the blessing of the cemetery grounds and cross will be held later in the day.

The new cemetery consists of twelve acres of ground. It is beautifully located and the pastor, Rev. Fr. Varzaly as well as a number of the men of the congregation have been working for weeks in planting trees and shrubbery to give the place a beautiful appearance.

The costliest toy known is a broken-nosed wooden hobby-horse, with an intrinsic value of less than fifty cents, but which brought several hundred dollars at auction because it once belonged to the boy Bonaparte.

LINDBERGH ADDS NEW MARK TO TRANSATLANTIC RECORDS

In completing his non-stop flight from New York to Paris for the Orteig prize of $25,000, in 33 hours, 29 minutes, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh in his monoplane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," has set a new record in transatlantic travel for the aviators of the future to shoot at. The record for sailing vessels was made in 1859 by the "Dreadnaught," a clipper ship, which traversed the distance from New York to Cape Clear, Ireland, in 12 days. The modern steamship record was established in September, 1924, when the "Mauretania" made the distance from New York to Plymouth in four days, 21 hours, and 57 minutes. This record was lowered the following month by the dirigible "ZR-3," later the "Los Angeles," which flew from Friedrickshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., 5,066 miles, in 3 days, 9 hours, 17 minutes. The first non-stop flight over the Atlantic was accomplished in 1919 by aviators Alcock and Brown in a British biplane. They flew from St. Johns, N. F., to Clifden, Ireland, 1,960 miles, in 16 hours and 12 minutes. The distance from New York to Paris, via Lindbergh's route, is approximately 3,600 miles.

Game Commissioner Jared Reis Defends Action Taken On Does

In defense of the action of the board of game commissioners of Pennsylvania announcing an open season of a week for female deer or does in order to reduce the surplus now existing Jared M. B. Reis vice president of the commission says that such action has been made necessary in order to conserve the deer for the sportsmen of the future.

The doe law says Mr. Reis was not for the purpose of protecting the doe from the sportsmen but in order that deer might get a start in the state. Now not only have they gotten a start but there is an enormous herd of female deer which are not only not producing anything but are eating up the feed necessary for bucks and young bucks which the sportsmen hope for in the future seasons.

And many deer died this year because of lack of food. Mr. Reis says that they have had reports from the game wardens and other individuals of hundreds of animals found dead in certain districts. One man reports that in a territory of less than eight square miles as many as 73 dead animals were found. Wardens report that in three townships of a certain district every laurel branch and pine tree were completely striped by deer this winter, and in many other districts not only the foliage but the tender branches of trees were eaten by the deer. Nothing but starving deer will eat the trees down to the ragged stumps that have been found.

There are many more female deer than necessary for the sportsmen so the commission have thought it wise to reduce this surplus to the point where they can be taken care of. This was tried by making an open season of a few days in certain districts and counties but it caused a lot of dissatisfaction from hunters in those districts and did not accomplish the purpose of the commission so it was decided that the only thing to do was to make a general open season of a week for does.

Mr. Reis has a map prepared by the game commission that shows that over 2,000,000 deer are found in nearly half the territory of the state while at least one-tenth of the state has areas of deers in abundance. The map shows a strip reaching from the eastern edge of Mercer county clear across the state to the Deleware river in which deer is found, many places in abundance. Strips also extend south along the mountains into West Virginia and Maryland and north into New York.

What the commission is trying to avoid is a weakened condition of the animals by starvation to such an extent that some epidemic may perchance sweep off the whole herd of deer like it did in California.

It is estimated that from the bucks killed last fall as many as 120,000 fawns will be born this June and weaned in October. At the rate the feed has been devoured by the many does, these fawns, half of which should be bucks for the shooting in a couple years will come through the winter in a weakened condition if they live through at all.

One must not forget that for five months of the year most of the territory where these deer feed is covered under 2 1-2 fet of snow so that deer are put to a hard task to find anything to eat for months.

Mr. Reis says that the complaints of farmers as to the destriction of their crops is becoming more frequent and insistent. One man living in a valley between the ranges of mountains near Tyrone has had hundreds of dollars worth of friut trees destroyed in one season. Besides the deer by night almost completely demolished his crop of corn, beans, buckwheat and hay, ending up in the fall by eating his turnips. They would eat the fruit off the trees in the summer season. Of course says Mr. Reis the commission wants to protect the farmer and his crops but their chief concern is for the sportsmen and they hope the real sportsmen will co-operate with them in preserving the best kind of hunting in the state that is possible.

Many local sportsmen are already endorsing the efforts of the commission says Mr. Reis. The Ward Ranch composed of local men who have a camp in Forest county have adopted a resolution aproving of the commission's action. He hopes many others will be open to explanation and not criticize wherein they lack sufficient information. The commission have men on the ground all the year round and know the condition in the heart of winter and it is on the basis of the information received from these men that the commission acts.

Building Permits Place New Castle With State Leaders

Big Gain In Size Of April Building Permit Amounts Is Shown

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, May 28.—Building operations in New Castle during April placed that city among the leaders in the state for the per centage of gain over the corresponding month of 1926. Records on file at the department of labor and industry show that the gain for New Castle was 196 per cent over the building operations of April last year.

During the first four months of this year city authorities have issued permits for work to cost $1,179,770 in 276 operations. This is a considerable gain over the $481,805 for the corresponding period of 1926.

Last month, the department records show, the city issued 65 permits for new buildings at an estimated cost of $395,650 and 37 for alterations to cost $198,140. For the same month of 1926 there were 93 permits granted for new construction to cost $186,595 and 41 for alterations costing $13,945.

Final Trip Over Paris Is Thriller

Capt. Lindberg Does Some Fancy Flying In Taking Departure

(International News Service)

PARIS, May 28.—Captain Chas. A. Lindbergh bade farewell to Paris today with startling air maneuvers, and all Paris stopped work to wave its adieu to the worshiped airman.

Glittering in the sun, Lindbergh glided his "Spirit of St. Louis" over Paris gracefully, while other planes hovered near. Crowds in the streets craned their necks, roofs were black with observers and throngs hung from office windows.

Traffic stopped as Lindberg flew over the Champs Elysees and the hum of his moter seemed to sing a song of parting.

The American lad made for Eifel tower, which seems to hold a strange attraction for him and he circled the tower with is plane banked at an angle of 45 degrees while the crowds shuddered, fearing lest he go into a side-slip. But not Lindbergh. He nosed his plane into the skies again, made an altitude and headed for Le Bourget Brussels and new honors.

Any sort of association is better than sitting in an office trying to do the other fellow down, and meeting him only to do business with him with the worst intentions.—George Bernard Shaw.

Mrs. Eileen Stone Is Again Winner Of Tennis Tournament

Mrs. Stone Wins Y. W. Indoor Tennis Tournament For Second Time

MRS. EILEEN STONE

Mrs. Eileen Stone, became for the second time, champion of a Y. W. C. A. tennis tournament. She was the winner of the finals in the fall outdoor tourney of 1926. This tourney, from the very beginning has been marked with some very fine playing, much in advance of the tennis in the spring tournament of last year.

At the beginning of Friday evening's exciting match it looked as though the title would be taken away from Mrs. Stone by her contestant for the championship, Miss Agnes McClelland.

However in the second and third sets, regaining the "Stone" efficiency and steadiness, Mrs. Stone came to the floor with some excellent placing of return balls. At the end of the third set, she walked off the court amidst the cheers of the enthusiastic audience, carrying the victor's laurels, which this time was the tennis racquet, with which she had played throughout the tourney and which, was awarded the winner by the Y. W. C. A.

To win her title, Mrs. Stone played 48 games. Miss McClelland, Mrs. Stone's opponent, forced the champion to do some real playing. Miss McClelland's return balls surpassed her serves in technique and the score in games would probably have been closer than it was, had Miss McClelland had a little more endurance.

The score in sets was, first set, 6 to 3 in favor of Miss McClelland. Second set 6 to 2, and the third set, 6 to 4, in favor of the winner, Mrs. Stone.

All participants in the tourney are looking forward to the fall tennis tourney with much anticipation. They expect to practice extensively on the new courts at Camp East Brook this summer. Camp East Brook is having two new tennis courts this year, which will afford the girls many more opportunities for playing.

Surplus Of Teachers In Mercer County

MERCER, Pa., May 28.—Any number of good teachers and very few vacancies to fill for 1927 is the report of today at the office of the county Superintendent of schools.

There is a reason, states Prof. H. E. McConnell, the school head, in the fact that this is the last year under the provisions of the school code that a high school graduate may start teaching following a course in summer school work.

A college or normal diploma will be required after 1927 to start the code provides. This, however, does not affect high school graduates who have made a start before the expiration of '27 and are working toward a standardization as prescribed by the code.

This year is the only one of its kind in the educational history of Mercer county. For many years there was a scarcity of good teachers. Then came the new school code raising the salary of teachers and demanding better preparation for their work.

The result has been, states Mr. McConnell that teachers no longer leave their positions for better jobs but are remaining in their chosen profession.

It is stated that nearly all of the teachers for the 1927 and 1928 term are elected now.

There are very few vacancies to fill and many good teachers will be forced to look for positions in other counties.

Mrs. Knowlson Dodge To Return To Coast

(International News Service)

DETROIT, May 28.—Virtually divorced from her husband, Horace E. Dodge, Jr., son of one of the founders of Dodge brothers, Mrs. Knowlson Dodge, was making plans today to return to California, where their children are recovering from scarlet fever.

Mrs. Dodge was granted an absolute divorce decree yesterday on the grounds of extreme cruelty, but Judge Vincent M. Brennan reserved the formal signing until next Thursday so that attorney's might reach an understanding as to the payment of fees.

Mrs. Dodge will receive a reputed $1,000,000 settlement from the millionaire boat builder which is guaranteed by his mother, Mrs. Hugh Dillman.

The action was uncontested.

Mrs. Dodge testified that her husband used abusive language to her; remained away from home much of the time and had fits of temper.

Rain Hindering Work On Roads

Work on the construction of concrete highways has been much hindered in the district during the past two or three weeks by rain, says J. H. Robinson, district engineer of the State Highway Department.

But with the prospects of good weather for the next few weeks work should proceed much more rapidly than heretofore. The road that the department has under construction in Lawrence county is the road between Ellwood City and Wurtemburg.

The heavy rains of the past week have often washed out grades almost as fast as they could be prepared so that little progress was able to be made.

The train consisted of eight-five cars loaded with livestock and left Willard, O. Friday morning at 6:55 o'clock, arriving here at 12:10 p. m., a matter of a little over five hours, the train maintaining passenger time. The crew in charge were the regular men assigned to this run.

Painting Routes Thru New Castle

State highway route numerals are being painted on poles bordering the routes as they pass through the city, so that autoists passing through the city may more easily find their way on the routes they are using.

The numerals are being painted directly on poles where available or on small boards fastened to something where they can be easily seen. The sign consists of the route numeral painted in bright orange within an orange outlined keystone, both painted on a dark blue background. One is placed at the intersection of important streets.

The blue bands have been painted on most of the streets for sometime and are being painted on the downtown district of Washington street this morning.

SCOUTS

New Bedford Troop 1

New Bedford's scouts held their regular weekly meeting in the school with perfect attendance. Scoutmaster Rapp was in charge, he called the roll, each boy responding with a good turn. Several interesting games and instruction in signaling were the main features of the meeting. Ralph Boyd and Ralph Gilliland passed their first class test for the fourteen mile hike. According to the point system the Seal Patrol under Herbert Boyd leads in their scout activites.

This troop will take part in the Memorial Day exercises at the Hopewell Presbyterian church Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Flowers will be planted while Wylie Wallace acts as color bearer.

An over-night hike will be held this evening by the scouts. They will go to Bradley woods.

The next meeting will be held Thursday, June 2, in the school.

Forestry Posters

The Forestry Posters have come to the Scout headquarters and will be distributed to any troop desiring them.

Troop 14

A very interesting get-together meeting of the members of troop 14 was held Friday evening in the Elm street branch of the Y. W. C. A.

The purpose of the meeting was to create a larger enthusiasm in scout work and to serve as a means for the parents to become better acquainted with the boys and their duties.

Many parents were present as well as Troop committeeman Rev. A. C. Bell, F. E. Bailey and R. J. Williams. Special visitors were John Dye and W. G. Ayers.

Plans were made for camp this year under the leadership of Scoutmaster F. D. Wilkes who was in charge of the meeting.

Wage Conference In Coal Strike Off Till June 15

Operators And Miners Joint-Committee Fails To Agree And Adjourn

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 28.—Blaming each other for the failure to reach an agreement, the joint conference of representatives of the miners' and operators' in the central Pennsylvania bituminous coal field stood adjourned today until June 15.

The conferees met at the Bellevue Stratford here for several days in a futile attempt to reach an agreement on a new wage pact to replace the Jacksonville agreement. The miners will continue to work at the Jacksonville wage scale until June 15, it was agreed, before the conference broke up late yesterday.

The outlook, however, seemed somewhat brighter today towards peace as both sides admitted some progress had been made. Although the operators still are said to be firm in their stand for a reduction of the Jacksonville wage scale while the miners are equally determined to accept no cut in wages. Both operators' and miners' issued statements explaining their positions.

Clay Miner Saved From Death By Fellow Workers

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 28.—Luke R. Haar, of Dillsburg, today was none the worse for an experience which nearly cost him his life by drowning, 150 feet beneath the surface of the earth in a clay tunnel of the mines of the Mineral Products Company, at Dillsburg, near here.

Haar was trapped in the tunnel when a clay bank, softened by recent rains, collapsed, sealing the entry. Fellow workmen, sensing Haar's predicament, dug frantically for an hour and a half, while the water mounted slowly up to the man's waist, and finally to his shoulders.

He had almost given up hope when the men broke through the clay wall and drew him to safety with a rope.

A Prophet

need not be without honor— even in his own country but he's got to be good

IT'S hard to fool the home-folks. They know you too well; they're too familiar with your human weaknesses and foibles.

You may look ever so good behind the footlights—where the calcium and the make-up cover up a lot of blemishes; but to the disillusioned scrutiny across the breakfast-table—that's different.

"A prophet is not without honor save in his own country."

So, also with an automobile. Especially with a new automobile.

Pretty paint, tasty upholstery, and flash performance—properly embellished by the salesman and the advertising expert — sometimes permit a new automobile to leap into popularity overnight.

But not in its own home-town.

It takes more than shiny paint or honeyed words to fool the home-folks; for they know just what goes into the automobile, of materials, or workmanship and of honesty of purpose; and if any "bugs" develop, they know it, instantly.

More than six thousand of Lansing's 80,000 residents are employed building Reos.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 of Lansing's population are connected, directly or indirectly, with the Reo Motor Car Company.

This means that the people of Lansing know Reo products — and they know the Reo Flying Cloud, "from stem to stern."

They know, as do the residents of no other city in the United States, the kind of automobile it is — the ideals of the men and of the Company that are building it — the record it is making, both in sales and in performance, throughout the length and breadth of the Continent.

Which means that Lansing's verdict on the Flying Cloud means something.

And here is that verdict:

In March, 1927, there were registered in Ingham County, Michigan, 485 new cars—of which 47, or approximately 10%, were Reos!

In all, there were 28% fewer new cars registered in Ingham County in March, 1927, than in March, 1926; despite which, Reo registered a gain of 250%.

Reo was outsold only by two very low-priced automobiles; and at the same time Reo outsold, by approximately 5 to 1, every other make of car in its price-field.

This is Lansing's verdict on the Flying Cloud — the verdict of people who know automobiles, and especially who know the Flying Cloud automobile.

A prophet need not be without honor even in his own country—but he's got to be good.

Beating All the Records of 22 Years

Reo's production and sales in April broke all previous monthly records during the entire 22 years of the Company's history—exceeding the former record by 25%.

Pleasure-car shipments for that month were three times as great as for April, 1926.

Production and shipments this month are running even higher than in April—indicating another new record.

New sales records are being made in every part of the country.

Most interesting of all, however, is the record of the Flying Cloud in its own "country"—in Ingham County, Michigan, in which Lansing is located. Here it is:

Commerce Board Makes Ruling In Lake Cargo Case

Holds Freight Rates For Coal Shipment Unreasonable But Not Prejudicial

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—The Interstate Commerce commission today decided the so-called lake cargo case by holding that freight rates on bituminous coal from mines in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia in the Pittsburgh, Ohio No. 8, and Cambridge districts to lower Lake Erie ports for transshipment by vessel were unreasonable but not unduly prejudicial."

The rates on lake shipments from mines in the Fairmont district of West Virginia were found not unreasonable or unduly prejudicial, as alleged.

The commission prescribed a rate not to exceed $1.46 per ton of 2,000 pounds from mines in the Pittsburgh district and $1.43 per ton from mines in the Ohio No. 8 and Cambridge districts.

While clerks, customers and spectators stood paralyzed with fear during a recent grocery store holdup in Cleveland, 11-year-old Dorothy Pfaff dashed past the bandits to her home and telephoned the police.

Award Medals At St. Mary's School

Joseph Quinn And Miss Mary Vanderson Are Given Honors

Medal awards of the American Legion and the Legion, Auxiliary were made Friday afternoon to the winners in the eighth grade of St. Mary's school. The fortunate young people were Joseph Quinn and Miss Mary Vanderson.

The presentation of the medals is in line with the policy adopted by the Perry S. Gaston Post of the American Legion some years ago. Each year the boy or girl in each of the eighth grades of the various schools in the city and county are selected by a vote of the pupils, the selection of the teachers and the Legion. To win one of the medals is a distinction which is much sought for by the youngsters.

The presentation service in St. Mary's was presided over by Very Rev. F. F. O'Shea, pastor of St. Mary's who introduced the speakers. Pat J. Dempsey, district deputy commander for the 26th District of the American Legion presented Mr. Quinn with his medal and Mrs. R. L. Boyd, president of the Auxiliary made the presentation for the Auxiliary to Miss Vanderon. Bart Richards made the address to the pupils and short talks were given by Rev. F. S. Clifford, Mrs. William E. Ferver, Mrs. Geo. Keuch, Miss Mary Ferver, Mrs. Jos. Hammond, Mrs. Perry S. Gaston and Officer James Wysner.

The following program was presented by the pupils. Three selections by St. Mary's orchestra. Chorus "Uncle Sammy" by the school. Flag song and flag salute by the school, a folk dance by the little tots of the school, song "The Blue and the Gray" by the eighth grade and a pantomime, "The Star Spangled Banner" by a group of girls of the school.

They recognize the leadership of the "Red Star" and can only hope that their's is "nearly as good." Remember the "Red Star" gives you the best results known to oil stoves—it has no wicks, no rings, no odor, no fumes and as the oil is NOT UNDER PRESSURE there is no danger.

You can go over the fine car market with a fine-toothed comb—and you will not discover another automobile which offers all the advantages of the Oakland 4-door Sedan at anywhere near $1195. Other manufacturers in Oakland's price class offer broughams, coupes, roadsters and touring cars at this figure—but none offers a 4-door sedan!

Every demand for comfort, smoothness and luxury is satisfied in this value leader of the Oakland line. The body in Cobalt Blue Duco bears the Fisher nameplate. The powerful, economical six-cylinder engine has all the freedom from vibration which caused the Harmonic Balancer to be so widely adopted. The chassis has all those progressive features which created the Oakland reputation for advanced engineering—balanced revolving parts from crankshaft to rear axle; an oiling system which, at 35 m. p. h., forces over 100 gallons of oil an hour through moving engine parts; tilting-beam headlights with foot control, and others equally important.

Will Tell How To Care For Chickens

One of the most noted experts on poultry diseases in the United States is Lyman Peck who is coming to give a free lecture and demonstration to the poultry raisers of this community in the American Legion Home on Tuesday evening May 31. He will show how to recognize, prevent and treat various poultry diseases.

Mr. Peck has made a post-mortem examination of more than 15,000 chickens in the past four years and has shown thousands of poultry raisers how to prevent many of the losses they have suffered as the result of diseases. Sick chickens will be killed and Mr. Peck will demonstrate just how to go about making a proper diagnosis of the different ailments of both mature and baby chicks. Bring some of your sick chickens to the clinic at 7:30 in the evening of May 31 as the more birds Mr. Peck receives the better the demonstration will be. The meeting is called for 7:30 p. m. daylight savigs time. The ladies are invited to attend the demonstration.

Over 3500 Pupils Given Toxin Anti Toxin During Past Few Weeks Here

Over 2500 pupils of the New Castle schools have received the immunization treatment for diphtheria, according to a report made public today by the school physicians, Drs. Mildred Rogers and Ralph Campbell. The report is an interesting one and follows.

"On April 7, 1927, the drive against diphtheria began with a mass meeting at the Senior High School to which all teachers, school board members, doctors, Federated Club members and all parents interested were invited.

After the mass meeting slips were given out to all children, explaining the Schick test and the immunizing doses against diphtheria, with a consent slip attached which the parents were asked to sign.

These slips were returned and the number desiring the toxin antitoxin treatment determined. On April 27, we began Schick testing all children except those in the first grade.

We schicked 2,698 children on April 27, 28 and 29. On May 2nd we began to read the Schick tests and to those with a positive Schick we gave the toxin anti-toxin. We gave an average of 610 doses of toxin anti-toxin per day. This varied with the size of school and the number of times it was necessary to move from one school to another in one day. As soon as one school was completed we moved to the next school and at the end of the week we had immunized all children whose parents had signed slips in

The week of May 9th we repeated our work giving the second dose and the week of May 16 the third dose, giving each child three doses of toxin anti-toxin one week apart. The week of May 23rd we began at the Mahoning School and spent some time in each district giving a third dose to those children who, being absent, missed one dose.

We will finish with the last dose at Mahoning School the last week of school.

It has been impossible for us to immunize the high school—we have received many requests from the junior high schools and we hope to immunize them in the fall.

In order to complete this work all these children given toxin antitoxin now should be given the Schick test in September and their immunity established. We also hope to give another opportunity to all parents for the toxin anti-toxin in September.

Many parents have called us and asked to have their children immunized since they have seen our results. We have advised these children to go to their family doctor for this work during the summer vacation but for those who do not, we hope to give a second chance in the fall. Our slogan is "No diphtheria in New Castle."

Several children had the Schick test done and planned to have their family doctor give the toxin antitoxin during the summer. Comparatively few children were negative to the Schick test—about 122. These were not given the toxin anti-toxin and do not appear in our percentage of immunization for each school.

We have several sore arms—and a few serum rashes developed from the treatment—but all parents agreed that the sore arms were better than diphtheria.

Following is the report according to schools showing the percentage of children in each district immunized. You will note that the percentage is highest in Pollock because of the death from diphtheria of a four year old child living near the school, on Saturday, April 30. Our lowest percentage is in West Side because two years ago the children in West Side were given an opportunity for toxin anti-toxin and 82 were schicked, 69 receiving the treatment. This brings the percentage of immunization in that school to 47 per cent.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Last week of May is expected to be a period of rising average temperatures and decreasing precipitation; very favorable cropweather over the continent in general. Storm waves that are expected to cross continent during weeks centering on May 27 and 31 will be of moderate intensity and will not be expected to be followed by northern cold waves. As the earth passes between Sun and Saturn, which opposition occurs May 27, a general warming up will be expected over the North American continent, probably resulting in a short period of excessive heat in sections 5 and 9, east part of 1 and 3 and west part of 2 and 4; the only damaging influence during this period will probably be the favorable conditions for the breeding of pests and quick forming local storms of dangerous character. An enormous amount of planting and sowing will take place during this period, most of it very late and a considerable portion lost or unprofitable. This period will be especially favorable to that flooded part of southwest that needs a drying out but unfavorable to the western part of southwest that is in such condition that heavy rains would be worth millions of dollars.

June Weather

Period of above normal temperatures that was expected to start near May 24 will extend to near June 8, east of Rockies. West of Rockies a short period of above normal temperatures last part of May will give way to a cool period first ten days of June in north and central parts and an excessively dry heat period in southern part. General precipitation for North America will increase during the month of June, relative to local normal precipitation; greatest precipitation will be on western slopes and land approaching those slopes, excepting section nine, where dry weather is expected; during the average June section nine receives little moisture, so this dry period will be of little importance in that section. Principal precipitation during June will occur during storm periods centering on 9 and 15. June 9 to 21 will average below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation east of Rockies; about normal temperatures and above normal precipitation on central and northern Pacific slope; above normal temperatures and below normal precipitation on southern Pacific slope. A moderate storm wave centering on June 22 and a storm wave of mild intensity centering on 30. A heavy drop in average temperatures is expected to occur east of Rockies following storm wave centering on June 9 with a comparative rise in average temperatures west of Rockies at this time. June will be a fair cropweather month excepting western plateau and strip just east of Rockies, where precipitation will be inadequate. Best average crop-weather of the month will be expected on central and northern Pacific slope and in cotton belts east of Rockies excepting that area just east of Rockies. Daily average temperatures will reach greater extremes than usual; during the average month of June the range of temperature extremes is very small; during June 1927 some very high temperatures will be expected during first and last weeks of month and some very low temperatures during periods centering on 11 and 27. Precipitation will decrease during last part of June, becoming entirely too dry in large areas.

Hamer Is Elected Fraternity President

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 28.—Howard Hamer, of Erie, a sophomore at Westminster College, was elected president of Tau Kappa Alpha, the national honorary debate fraternity, at a meeting of the fraternity Friday. Hamer debated for the first time as a varsity man during the past season and was very successful. He should make an efficient leader.

Thomas Mansell of New Wilmington, was elected vice-president and Samuel Colman of Philadelphia, secretary-treasurer.

Although the varsity squad will be hard hit by graduation, prospects are bright for next year. Two complete teams were carried during the past season, and in this way several new men were given experience.

Brown Bricker of N. Braddock, retiring president of T. K. A., Robert Ferguson of Bellevue, and Jesse Cogley of Braddock, are the seniors who graduate. The teams next year will be chosen from the following veterans: Hamer, Mansell, Colman, Wilson Botsford of Pittsburgh, Wallace Maxwell of New Wilmington, Halden Williams of Carnegie, and James Chambers of New Castle.

Dr. C. A. Dawson, head of the department of English of the college, is debate coach and advisory member of the debate fraternity.

Christ Jesus never showed any hostility to what might be called the church order of the time. But he would never allow that spiritual power was confined solely to the regular and appointed channels.—Bishop of Manchester.

Ellwood Seniors Score Notable Success In Class Night Program

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., May 28.—"Our class has lots of push and pep,
We'll make our mark in Heaven,
We gave the Lincoln High its rep,
The Class of '27."

The merry jingle of the class poem emphasized rather well the spirit of the graduates of Ellwood City High school at the class night exercises in the Lincoln High school gymnasium, Friday evening, presented before many friends and relatives of the graduates.

The program, interesting and humorous, throughout, evidenced the fact that the Class of '27, of the Ellwood City High school, possesses musical, literary, and histrionic talent above the average.

The program opened with the class song, by all the class, accompanied by Miss Alice M. West, on the piano.

In the address of welcome by David Jones, the class president emphasized the friendship existing among the members of his class.

John Nido followed with a violin solo in his unusual talented manner. The accompaniment was played by Miss Margaret Benford.

In the class will, read in a sprightly manner by Miss Anne Bregar, everything the Class of '27 did not want was bequeathed to everybody who would not be expected to want it.

Part of the class poem, written and read by Miss Lucy Johns, has been quoted, and it was greatly appreciated by her classmates.

In the piano duet, played by Miss Margaret Benford and Miss Edith Law, a difficult composition, "The Poet and Peasant Overture" was presented in a very creditable manner.

William Blocher, as class prophet, predicted most remarkable futures for the members of his class, and referred to himself as the future President of the United States. His remarks drew forth the hearty applause of the audience, for his witty, personal references to his mates.

As the class grumbler, Miss Janet Gemil gave a light and humorous satire on the well known, mostly imaginary woes, of the High school senior.

The cornet solo by Ray Conner was highly applauded by all present.

In her usual charming and naive style, Miss Virginia Kerr imitated an old colored man, in a clever and humorous reading, and was greeted with much applause.

One of the outstanding features of the evening was a series of tableaux representing the seven ages of man in a strikingly comical manner. Those taking part in the tableaux were Curtis Neff, representing the Age of Innocence; Anne Britton, representing the Age of Wisdom; Harold Garwig, representing the Plastic Age; Mabel Wilson, Mildred Duncan, representing the Age of Sophistry; H. Garwig, Florence Luman, Ray Conner and Mary Iseman, representing the Reckless Age; Curtis Neff, Harold Garwig, Florence Luman, Stanton Taylor, and an infant, representing the Sensible Age. Reader, Allen Keller, two pages, Lena Anderson and Leone Stuart.

The tableau was conceived and directed by Miss Mary Iseman and Miss Florence Luman, and was extremely clever and appropriate.

The class donors were Helma Goff, and Verne McKim, Robert Aiken, and George Hildebrand. There was much amusement among the audience as the donors played upon the innocent eccentricities of their class-mates by giving each of them a gift adapted to his or her particular weakness. Each of the donors made the presentation with witty remarks in easy and natural manner.

The key of education was given to the Junior class by Victor Rabberman in an effective address, and was received by Tony Pasts representing the class of 28, in a dignified and creditable speech.

The program ended with the High school song sung vigorously by all the class.

There are 72 graduates in the class of 1927. The class officers are David Jones, president; Frank Richards, vice president; Mary Iseman, secretary; and Ruth Dilley, treasurer.

Honor students of this year are: Edwin Geddes, valedictorian, Elizabeth McCaslin, salutatorian, Anna Boots, Mary Walszak, Charles Mayne, Virginia Kerr, Howard Blank, Verne Thornhill, Harold Garwig, Margaret Benford, Frank Richards, Janet Gemmil.

Motorist Who Drove While Intoxicated Gets Jail Sentence

Judge Hildebrand Not Disposed To Show Mercy To This Class Of Offenders

Ross Shaner, a resident of Beaver county, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for three months by Judge Hildebrand this morning, on a charge of on the streets of Ellwood City, toxicated. Mr. Shaner was arrested operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Mr. Shaner was arrested on the streets of Ellwood City, where it is said that he has been employed.

In passing sentence Judge Hildebrand made it plain that he does not propose to show much leniency toward offenders who get into an automobile and drive it while under the influence of liquor. The fact that a driver does not strike anybody does not make any difference. It is merely a matter of good luck, and does not mitigate the offense of endangering the lives of motorists.

Shaner was visibly affected by the sentence, as he seemed to feel that he would get off with a fine.

Kindergarten Has May Day Festival

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., May 28.—A May-pole dance was the feature of a May-day party of the kindergarteners, at the Hartman school yesterday, to which the kiddies' mothers and friends were invited.

An exhibit of the work that the tiny tots have been doing this season may be seen in the window of Cartwright's Hardware company. Some of the things made by the children are really remarkable considering their youth. There are models in clay, tiny aprons that the children really wear, stuffed dolls, and simple toys of all descriptions.

The mothers all agreed that the work of the season under the supervision of Miss Mary Wilson was most gratifying.

It is planned to open the kindergarten next year under the same teacher if the interest of the townspeople justify it.

Sunday School Rally At Ellwood Church On Sunday Morning

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., May 28.—Five hundred persons are expected to take part in the Sunday school rally at the First Christian church Sunday morning, on the occasion of the opening of the new church. The morning service will be a Memorial service in which all the patriotic organizations of the town will attend.

The Christian church outgrew its former church quite awhile before arrangements were made to build a new church building. The men's Bible class of the Sunday school were forced to have their class meetings in a portable building erected for the purpose beside the old church. When at last even the portable building could no longer take care of the over-flow, members decided to build the new building that is now ready for occupancy in the basement.

A large number are expected to be present at the Memorial service. The program follows:

Still a Boy!

Sh! Sixty odd years and well we know it—
But 'that Kruschen feeling' doesn't show it."

Are you "getting on" in years? Have you begun to dread the approach of old age?

There is no reason why you should—if you're healthy. Anyhow, it's a mistake to reckon up your age in years. There's many a man of forty who has already got one foot in the grave, while his next-door neighbor, who confesses cheerfully to sixty, has still a score or more years of healthy activity in front of him. Which, then, is the "older" of the two.

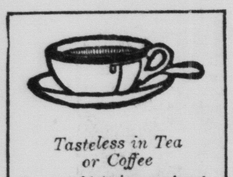

The healthy man can snap his fingers at the calendar. He knows he going to enjoy his "old age" with just as much relish as he enjoyed his youth. Because he has been careful to keep his blood pure and virile, the blood of youth still courses through his veins.

The way to keep the blood in this happy and healthy condition is to take the "little daily dose of Kruschen Salts."

Each morning dose you take—tasteless in your breakfast cup of coffee or tea—is a perfect blend of the six vital salts your body needs for its healthy life. You must get those salts from somewhere, or your blood will become impure and debilitated, you will get run down and depressed, an easy prey to rheumatism, gout, indigestion, 'flu and any epidemic that may come along. Kruschen Salts are those salts. Hence the necessity for the "little daily dose."

The effect of Kruschen is not only to keep the blood pure and to drive all impurities out of the body, it has a tonic influence on the whole system, bracing you up physically and mentally, filling you with the joy of life and cheery self-confidence that passing years are powerless to mar.

Get a 60 cent bottle of Kruschen Tablets now and begin a new life tomorrow. You'll feel many years younger before you are many days older.

Tasteless in Tea or Coffee

Drop 2 tablets in your breakfast cup every morning—1 tablet for children. It's the little daily dose that does it.

Kruschen Salts

60 Tablets—60 Cents—all druggists.

Good Health for a Trifle a Day

IMPORTANT: Grandpa and his health creating Kruschen Salts have only lately come to the United States. In England, Germany, and Holland, as well as Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India and Canada, Kruschen is the biggest selling proprietory medicine—the sales are enormous. There's a reason—

Two tablets of Kruschen in your cup of coffee, tea or hot water every morning.

"It's the little daily dose that does it."

Start today to get "that Kruschen feeling."

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY Florence Smith Vincent

The boy had almost caught up to Fox by now—was, indeed, so close to him that he could see the long slits in the fellow's eyes, and these slits had a way of growing very long and bright when Fox was excited, as the Boy had noticed before. Fox was looking over his shoulder.

"A-ha! There comes the first of the pack. Time for me to jump while he still has his nose to the ground. One! Two Three!"

At the last count Cutie left the top rail, where he had been balancing himself like a tight rope walker, and bounded up the side of the tree. Just for a fleeting second he rested upon the large knot that stood out like a ledge upon its trunk, and then he disappeared.

"Well, of all the queer things I have seen this is the queerest yet!" exclaimed the Boy, arriving at the den himself. Did he run up this side of the trunk and down the other, I wonder?" Peter crawled through the fence and trotted around the tree. "No, he couldn't have done that," continued he, returning to the fence. "He wouldn't have had time to run so far that I couldn't see him, for the field is open and as flat as my hand."

"Woof! Woof! Bow! Bow! Ooooh!"

Just for a moment the Boy had forgotten the Dogs. Now their loud barking and baying told him they were close by. He "shinned" up a fence post until he stood upon exactly the same spot on the top rail as had Fox so short a while before. Then above the baying of the hounds he caught a strange sound. Someone was trying to call him. He heard his name.

"Two-Legs, little Two-Legs! Why don't you come all the way up and watch the fun?" Woof! Woof! The Dogs think they have me. Don't you want to see how foolish they act when they find out they have lost me?"

The voice came from above him. The Boy looked up and there, like foot of the tree and staring up. "Where in the world did that fellow go? There is no hole that I can see in which he could have hid- a Jack in the box Fox had poked his head out from the very top of the tree and was trying to whisper to him.

"My, but I am glad to see you there safe and sound, Cutie," cried the Boy. "Come up? Of course, I will, but aren't you afraid that in doing so I will 'give away' your hiding place? The Dogs may see me climbing the tree."

"Nonsense. These Dogs never raise their noses from the ground once they have picked up a trail. That is one of the great reasons why they do not catch me. Hurry on up, though. It may not be long before they head this way. I think I threw them off the scent when I jumped up on the fence. They would never think I would walk on the rail. Just watch them tearing over the ground! Now they have raced off to where you and I were standing when we heard the first danger call of the pack."

BEAVER FALLS TO PLAY HERE MONDAY A. M.

Meet Locals At 10:15 O'clock

New Castle To Play Beaver Falls Elks Here Monday Morning

AFTERNOON GAME ON VALLEY FIELD

New Castle's O. & P. league team will clash with the Beaver Falls Elks here at 10:15 o'clock on Monday morning. The afternoon game is scheduled for Beaver Falls. All teams in the league are playing double bills on Decoration Day.

The New Castle boys will hustle back to town late Sunday night from Erie, where they appear in the Sunday contest, and get plenty of rest before tackling the Elks on Memorial Day morning.

The Harvey managed outfit is fighting Massillon for the leadership in the loop, and they are playing a snappy brand of baseball. It will be the first meeting of the year between New Castle and Beaver Falls. Fans will recall the many close battles these same two teams fought last year.

Manager Meis will likely take the mound in the morning game with Jamieson called on to do the flinging at Beaver Falls in the afternoon game. New Castle will be hard-hit for pitchers over the week-end. The locals are playing Youngstown this afternoon at Centennial Field and Jamieson will do the flinging. Meis will have to take the knoll in the Sunday game at Erie, and that leaves the Monday games to be divided among the two heavers.

The Castles are hustling now. In their past few games the team has shown a marked improvement in both fielding and hitting, and if they continue in their present stride, the boys are going to advance quite rapidly in the league standing.

Other Decoration Day games in the O. & P. league are as follows: Canton at Massillon, Cleveland at Butler and Erie at Youngstown.

South Hills Top Lawrence Indies In Twilight Game

Jenkins On Knoll For South Hills Allows But Two Hits

Jenkins pitched airtight ball for the South Hills team, as the Boro boys applied the white-wash brush to the Lawrence Indies, in their postponed game, played at South Hills on Friday night. The final score was 5 to 0.

F. Nickum opposed Jenkins on the hill and was touched up for six hits. The South Hills boys scored three runs in the second inning and one in the fifth and sixth innings. The Indies could not solve the delivery of Jenkins with any degree of effectiveness.

Jenkins was given fine support by his team-mates. Staph led the stickers with two singles and a double, while Morgan and Cardella also turned in some timely stick work.

Coast Teams Look Best In College Field-Track Meet

Intercollegiate Track Championship Fight Between Stanford And Southern California

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor Internat'al News Service

PHILADELPHIA, May 28.—Marked F. O. B. Philadelphia and billed through to Palo Alto Calif., the intercollegiate championship in track and field was a s good as on its way west again today even before a spike hole was dug or a take off measured for the finale of the east's classic meet. For, following the qualifying of 14 men in yesterday's trials it was almost ordained that Stanford University was to win its first eastern title and round out the coast dynasty which has seen California win three championships and Southern California two since 1921.

It was a virtual impossibility for Stanford to go wrong today. Giving the Cardinals all the worst and Southern California all the best of the overnight calculations the former was due to score approximately 40 points and its coast rival not more than 27.

These were only entries that mattered, the champions that were and the champions that will be. The rest of them weren't any closer than next February a year.

Local Athletes In College Meet

Tri-State Conference meet will be held Monday in Reeves stadium of Geneva college at Beaver Falls at 1 p. m..

There are quite a number of New Castle young men, students at Geneva college who will participate in the meet and it is expected that some of them will break the Tri State Conference records in their respective lines of endeavor.

Leonard Friedman is expected to break the javelin throwing record, while John Kenst is expected to make a new mark in the two mile event and Sidney and Elroy Lockley in the mile event.

There will also be a baseball game between the New Castle and Beaver Falls teams of the O. and P. league following the meet and it will be possible for people from this city to witness both events.

Westminster To Send Some Entries

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 28.—Monday, Decoration Day, will be observed rather quietly on the Westminster College campus. Dr. W. Charles Wallace, president, has announced that no classes will meet, with final examinations starting Tuesday morning and continuing throughout the week.

J. W. Coleman, track coach, will take a group of eight men to the Tri-State Conference track meet to be staged at Reeve's Stadium, Beaver Falls, Monday. Westminster has little hopes of placing high, but it is thought that a representative showing can be made.

The eight men will probably include: William Hartwell of New Wilmington and Captain Wilt of Ligonier, dash men; William Crowell of Sharon, quarter miler; Kenneth Delahunty of Iselin, and Walter Hutchison of New Wilmington, pole vaulters; William Thomas of Farrell, broad jumper, and Henry Bucher of New Wilmington, weights.

The national power boat regatta for the President's Cup will be held at Washington, D. C., Sept. 17-18.

Jolly Pirates Have Been Turned Into "Bush Whackers"

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The best evidence offered to date in proof of the belief that managerial differences and lack of morale ruined the Pittsburgh Pirates last year is the showing the team has made under new management.

But Donnie Bush has gone farther than the mere proving of this theory. He has carried the team to the top of the National League race, partly through his own skill and fire.

Bush has not had the consistent pitching that was expected from his hurling staff. He was forced to remake his outfield, shot last season by the departure of Carey.

But he has delivered beyond the expectations of his biggest boosters.

When he led his team against the slugging Giants and knocked them flat four times in a row he not only shoved his team into the lead, but apparently buried an old jinx.

For several years before they copped the pennant in 1925 the Pirates had been a constant threat only to crack in the stretch—blow up at crucial moments. In 1926 they reverted to the old weakness.

The Giants were confident of taking the Pirates over. They not only failed to take the series but failed to take a game. One of these defeats was administered by Carmen Hill, a Giant discard.

Bush's experiment with young Lloyd Waner in the outfield has worked out marvelously well. Paul Waner, the first of the brothers to join the team, is still a youngster. Lloyd, younger still, had practically no fast experience when he joined the team last spring. But Bush knew what he wanted—youth and speed. And Lloyd was tossed into the outfield, along with his older brother.

All of which raises the query—"Why did Clark Griffith kick Donie out as pilot after one year's trial—after Bush had done as well with the club as anyone had up to that time?"

Ask me another.

Bush's appointment as manager of the Washington club came in the winter of 1922. He had been sent to the eastern outfit on waivers in the middle of the 1922 season after over 13 seasons as star shortstop of the Detroit Tigers.

He broke into pro baseball with Saginaw in the South Michigan league in 1906, moved from that club to Dayton in the Central league, thence to the South Bend club in the same circuit.

The Detroit club drafted him at the close of the 1907 season and farmed him to Indianapolis in 1908, recalling him at the close of the season.

Policemen Lose To Garbage Team

Police Pitchers Fail To Get Support From Teammates

By ED. FRITZ

Police lost to the garbage team, 19 to 7, at Centennial field Friday afternoon in one of the best comedy games of the season. There was not one dull moment and everybody who attended the game was thoroughly satisfied.

The game was staged to raise money for the Lawrence county chapter of the American Red Cross to be used for flood relief along the Mississippi valley. Although a large number of tickets had been sold, about 600 of the faithful turned out to witness the contest.

To say that baseball rules prevailed would be putting something in print that would not be accurate. To say that police rules predominated would be stating the truth precisedy. Police batted out of turn and in the third the garbage team was "retired" with only two out.

However, all of this went far to please the spectators, and when the last inning was being played the assemblage which backed the garbage team with the cheers began to trudge from the grandstand with a smile on their face and happy to have helped the Red Cross.

Has Good Team

Waters and Buckner were the stars for the garbage department. In fact this brace is probably the best colored battery in the season. Waters had lots of stuff on the ball and Buckner handled him with the skill of a LaLonge.

McKinley Jordan at third, Gray at short, Byers and McHenry at second and Gray at first kept the ball from reaching the outfield, providing it went along the ground. Jordan stopped many fast ones and whipped them to Gray with precision of a machine gun.

Whenever the outfielders, Cochran, Walker or Davis, got a chance to field the ball, they gobbled the fly balls in easy manner and at no time was the team off its balance. In fact, the garbage department has a nifty working combination and deserved to win.

When the game started Cricket Wysner appeared with a megaphone and Jimmie Steiner went to the mound. James lasted four innings. He got as much support as a Mississippi levee and Chief Dysart adopted the managerial role and removed him. Dysart sent Bob Latera to pitch with the score eight to three in favor of the garbage team as Johnny Waters was shooting his boa constrictors all around the police. However, lack of support of hits that should have been gathered up put Bob in many predicaments.

Who Cares, Anyway?

But who cares anything about the way the game went? What the fans and fanettes were chiefly interested in was the ability of the police to catch, hit and run after the ball. Harper fell over trying to get it, Ducky Samuels took the tilt seriously, likewise Allgier.

Dude Moore got a hit, then raced for first base, fell head over heels crossing the bag, while Fleeger, warmed up by swinging bats, failed to touch the ball. Apple Kennedy got two smashes, while Flinner failed to sniff the pill.

As runners the police have three who can run. They are Dukes, Steiner and Samuels. For bravery, Thompson takes the cake. He went behind the bat and caught. Harper also shines, as he said he could play baseball and the last time he saw one was in 1902.

Police rules prevailed to such an extent that with two down in the third the garbage team was retired. In the eighth Kennedy stole Flinner's turn at bat and in the ninth Steiner batted twice. Not so bad, but the colored boys didn't care. They were winning.

Cheer Garbage Men

Throughout the game the fans and fanettes yelled for the garbage team. The police took it all good naturedly. In fact, they went to the park determined to win if possible, but if not to lose courageously, and they did.

However, the causes for their defeat rests in the fact that the pitchers got no support. The batters couldn't hit and there were too many managers and principally when they did get the ball they didn't know what to do with it. Not many reasons, of course, but enough.

But after all, the Red Cross got some money and that is what the police and garbage teams, headed by Henry Dysart and Howard Phillips, wanted. The tickets will be checked up and sent to the local chapter. About 600 attended the contest.

The Fair Field

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The summer of 1915 saw the sturdy figure of a blonde Norwegian miss, Molla Bjurstedt, take the United States tennis world by storm. By the very power of her attack, the daring of her service and the general courageous spirit of her Viking ancestors, she played her way through sectional tournaments and then swept all before her in the national tourney, ending the three-year reign of Miss Mary K. Browne as net queen of America.

For four years Miss Bjurstedt, now Mrs. Molla Mallory, reigned supreme. Defeated in 1919 by Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman she returned to the throne in 1920 to rule the court world three more years.

Then Miss Helen Wills from the west, with youth and the crashing offensive youth carries into sport defeated her. She in turn held the title three years. Last summer saw her shelved by an operation and Mrs. Mallory stepped once more into the ermine of the tennis nobility.

Now Mrs. Mallory, 12 years after her first triumph, is in training to add one more national championship to her record. She is now in England for the Wightman games and the Wimbledon tourney and hopes that these matches will prepare her for the defense of her title against Miss Wills, Elizabeth Ryan and others in the national tourney late this summer.

One of the greatest games in the early history of baseball was played in St. Louis just fifty years ago, on May 1, 1877. The contesting teams were the St. Louis Browns and the Syracuse Stars. The game went 15 innings and when it was called on account of darkness not a run had been scored on either side.

On May 21 the Yale team defeated Harvard in a track meet, beat Princeton at golf, won from Harvard at lacrosse and from Cornell at baseball. The one block mark on the day's record was the defeat of the Crimson eight in the boat race with Princeton.

Then and Now

From third baseman to manager, via the umpire route! Years ago George Moriarty played third base for Detroit. Then he turned American League umpire, and for ten years he called 'em. Now he's back with Detroit, but as manager—Ty Cobb's successor. Picture shows him before and after.

A Mere Slip—And The Pearly Gates

BY FEG MURRAY

Wonder what the good citizens of Indianapolis thought about last fall every time they read that the 130,000 damp citizens who sat in the rain at the Dempsey-Tunney fight in the Sesqui stadium at Philadelphia constituted the largest crowd that ever witnessed a sporting event in the United States? Probably they laughed out loud, because they knew that nearly four months before Tunney beat Dempsey more than 150,000 persons had watched the annual Memorial Day auto race on the Indianapolis speedway, and nearly as many gathered there for the same event in 1925.

At any rate, the Hoosier City is just as agog over the coming gasoline derby as Louisville was over the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago, and when starter Fred Wagner lines up the 30 odd machines next Monday morning for the 15th annual 500-mile race, he will find himself, figuratively speaking, the cynosure of all the eyes of the sport-loving world.

I guess everybody is more or less interested in automobiles, and there is nothing more thrilling than the sight of two dozen glistening, fire-eating steel monsters tearing around the two and one-half mile brick speed way with engines roaring and drivers daring death every second of the five hours that the race lasts. And the daredevil drivers do race death, too, and they know it, but the gold and glory that goes to the winner are too strong a lure to resist. Five of the winners of this race classic have been killed in later events, yet each year there are plenty who take the risks for the $20,000 first prize and the added thousands from lap prizes and from bonuses given by manufacturers of various parts.

Last year, in a race that was once halted temporarily because of rain, and finally stopped at 44 miles, Frank Lockhart, a youthful Californian who had been trained in dirt track driving, finished first, two laps ahead of Harry Hartz, another "Native Son", both young men driving Miller Specials. Hartz, known as "the best second place man in automobile racing", won the American Automobile Association's national championships for 1926, but has yet to win his first Memorial Day race at Indianapolis. Perhaps this will be his year! He will be one of the five to race a front-drive type of car.

Ray Harroun won the first of these contests back in 1911. The other winners are as follows: 1912, Joe Dawson; 1913, Jules Goux; 1914, Rene Thomas; 1915, Ralph de Palma; 1916, Dario Resto; 1919, Howard Wilcox; 1920, Gaston Chevrolet; 1921, Tommy Milton; 1922, Jimmy Murphy; 1923, Tommy Milton; 1924, Corum and Boyer; 1925, Peter de Paolo; 1926, Frank Lockhart. The record for the course was established two years ago by de Paolo, a nephew of de Palma. He sped the 500 miles in a Duesenberg in 4 hours, 56 minutes, 39.46 seconds, or an average of 101.13 miles per hour.

Father Saves Son From Death, But Is Severely Hurt

(International News Service)

CLARION, Pa., May 28.—Prompt action by Lee Meely of Knox, probably saved his small son Curtis, from being crushed to death under a wagon when the later ran wild down an incline at Turkey City, but in rescuing his son both of Meely's legs were fractured it was learned today.

Meely was loading the wagon at a kiln when it suddenly started down the incline. The boy was thrown clear of danger before the wagon struck Meely. Curtis only recently recovered from a broken collar bone and other injuries sustained when he was gored by a cow.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

A nationally known baseball official remarks that the failure of the St. Louis Cardinals to step out, take the lead in the National League race and hold it has been one of the big disappointments of the season to date.

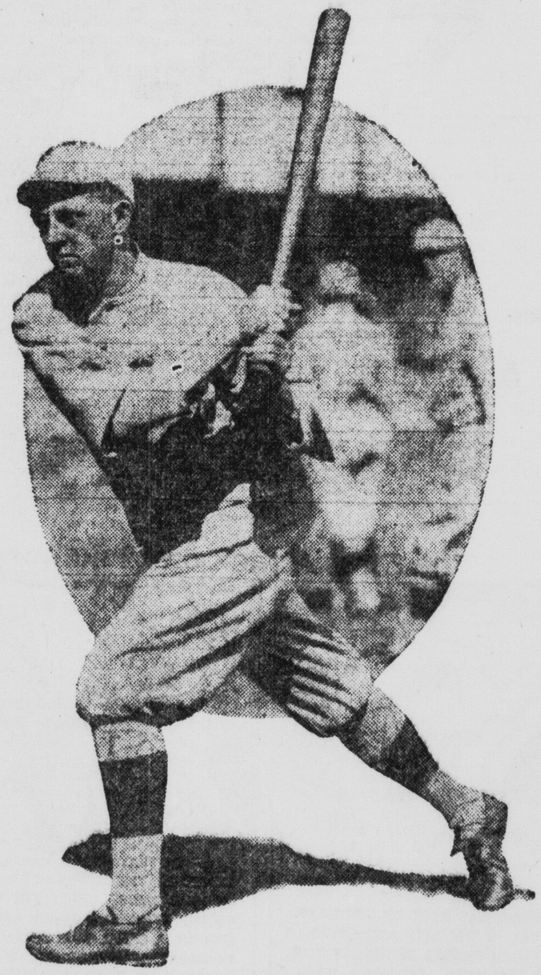

A disappointment to most folk, surely, because the team was popular last fall. But at the same time I, for one did not figure they would or could get away to a flying start this year and set the pace. Weighing the teams carefully last spring I felt that they would lack the fight and aggressiveness necessary to turn the trick. This despite the good pitching expected from Haines, Sherdel, Rhem and Alexander. I picked them to finish fourth in the race.

If it has any effect on the team the superior pitching the club received in the opening weeks has deterred it from the standpoint of building up the fighting spirit needed to check the Giants, Pirates and Cubs.

Whether or not Bob O'Farrell, popular manager, is lacking in the leadership and fighting ability which Rogers Hornsby carried into the fray is still debateable. O'Farrell has been handicapped himself by a lame arm.

The race in the National League is still anyone's race.

Central Christians Trim Presbyterians In Close Game 11-10

Christians Stage Rally In Seventh Inning And Score Six Runs

The Central Christians nosed out the Central Presbyterians 11 to 10, in an exciting Church League game, played on Friday night at the Lehigh Field. The game was a free hitting affair, with no regard for pitchers.

The Presbyterians got away to a fine start in the first four innings by pounding Houston from the mound and scoring ten runs. The Christians could not solve the delivery of Melder to any great extent until the fifth inning, and in this frame they pushed over two runs, they added two more in the sixth, making the score 10 to 5. The Presbyterians failed to score after the fourth inning.

The Christians opened the seventh by driving Melder for the box with two doubles in succession, fared no better, with Bush finally relieving him. Porter scored the winning run on Wilson's wild throw to first base. The Christians scored six runs in their seventh inning rally.

Features of the game was the catch in center field by Martin of a hard hit liner from Battley and the throwing out of Wilson at the plate by Martin. Porter and Garrity were the best hitters for the victors, while Melder and Barnes were the best clouters for the Presbyterians. A. Cowmeadow stole three bases. Frazier's fielding was also one of the highspots of the game.

Gehrig Wallops Another Homer

Buster Gehrig Hits Eleventh Homer Of Year; Ties Babe Ruth

THREE WINNING STREAKS UNBROKEN

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 28.—Three winning streaks remained unbroken in the major leagues today and one had been shattered, while two losing streaks were further extended. Meanwhile the home run race waxed hotter as Buster Gehrig walloped his eleventh homer, tying Babe Ruth.

The Pirates registered their ninth straight victory, the White Sox made it five in a row and Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn pitching ace, won his sixth consecutive game. On the other side of the ledger, Herb Pennock of the Yankees lost his first game of the season, the losing streak of the Giants was extended to six games, and the Cincinnati Reds sank further into the mire of the National League cellar.

Two pitching classics were turned in as the Yankees split a doubleheader with Washington. "Lizzie" Lissenbee, Washington's great young twirler, held the Yanks to four hits and beat them 7 to 2 as Pennock was knocked out of the box. Waite Hoyt came right back with a three-hit performance, however, and handed the Senators their first shutout of the season, 5 to 0.

The Pirates spotted the Cardinals to a six run lead and then nosed them out in the tenth, 8 to 7. Old Joe Bush won his own game with a single, while Rhem was knocked loose from the landscape.

John McGraw's revised lineup proved to be a total flop as the Giants lost both twins of a twin bill to Brooklyn, 5 to 3 and 5 to 1. Eddie Farrell shifted from shortstop to third base, made four errors in the first game and had to be replaced by Lindstrom. Vance and Petty were the winning pitchers.

The Braves went off the reservation and scalped the Phillies twice, 8 to 1 and 13 to 5.

The Browns made four errors and and booted away a game to Cleveland, 7 to 3, the Indians taking fifth place away from the Brownies.

Al Thomas of the White Sox, who has allowed only one earned run in his last thirty-five innings, trimmed Detroit 3 to 1 for his eighth victory of the season. The Tigers got only five hits.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

The First Attack on Vicksburg.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

ON JUNE 26, 1862, FARRAGUT'S FLEET, WHICH HAD PUSHED UP THE MISSISSIPPI FROM NEW ORLEANS, APPEARED BEFORE VICKSBURG. TWO DAYS LATER, THE FLEET BOLDLY STEAMED PAST THE SHORE BATTERIES, BUT RECEIVED MORE DAMAGE THAN IT INFLICTED. MEANWHILE FEDERAL MORTAR-BOATS HAD COMMENCED A STEADY BOMBARDMENT.

THE CANNONADING WAS KEPT UP FOR DAYS. MANY SHELLS FELL IN THE CITY AND CAVES WERE DUG TO AFFORD PLACES OF REFUGE FOR THE WOMEN AND CHILDREN. CIVILIANS, HOWEVER, SOON BECAME ACCUSTOMED TO THE FIRING AND WENT ABOUT THEIR DAILY WORK, ONLY SEEKING SHELTER WHEN THEIR PARTICULAR NEIGHBORHOOD WAS UNDER FIRE.

AFTER TWO WEEKS, FARRAGUT'S FLEET WAS JOINED BY THE UPPER FLOTILLA UNDER COMMODORE DAVIS. WHILE THE SHELLING OF THE CITY CONTINUED, A UNION LAND FORCE BEGAN DIGGING A CANAL ACROSS THE NECK OF LAND IN FRONT OF VICKSBURG TO ENABLE FEDERAL VESSELS TO PASS WITHOUT RUNNING THE FIRE OF THE BATTERIES. THIS PROJECT WAS DEFEATED BY THE HEAVY RAIN WHICH FILLED IN THE DITCH AS FAST AS IT WAS DUG.

ON JULY 27, THE FEDERALS ABANDONED THE BOMBARDMENT AND SAILED AWAY. THE DEFENDERS OF VICKSBURG AT ONCE BEGAN TO STRENGTHEN THE FORTIFICATIONS AND, TO SECURE THE REAR OF THE CITY FROM ATTACK, CONSTRUCTED A STRONG LINE OF REDOUBTS AND EARTHWORKS, WITH HAYNES'S BLUFF AND WARRENTON AS FLANK POSITIONS.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, May 28. — Today's short session of the stock market was in many respects a duplication of the preceding full sessions of the week. The merger-and-mystery rails and the specialties still held the center of the stage, but the absence from Wall Street of a large number of stock traders precluded wide speculative operations in these stocks.

The week-end business reviews called attention to the sharp contrasts in various sections of the country as related to business and industrial improvement. There has been a distinct decline in steel and copper buying, as well as in production of manufactured goods. Though wide areas of Union mines are still idle, and likely to remain so for a long time to come, plenty of fuel is offered from the non-union producers, who are now enjoying a good business.

Most encouraging of the week-end reports is the strength in the markets for farm products, including cotton, wheat, corn and rye. The cereals have been well bought at good prices. Sugar has also shown the effect of a more scientific regulation of the crop.

About half of the country's commodity markets were closed today, while the speculative, investment and half of the commodity markets were guided by the decision of the governors of the New York Stock Exchange to remain open.

Wabash topped its best previous price, selling about 76½ in the first hour, but Western Maryland, Bangor and Aroostook, Kansas City Southern and other speculative favorites of the week felt the weight of profit taking and were unable to continue their breakneck speed to the higher price levels. Rock Island, Southern Pacific and New York Central led the investment rail into a slightly higher range of prices, Rock Island advancing 2 points to a new high at 108¾. Pere Marquette jumped 3 points to 140¼.

Pools in a few of the specialty stocks were inclined to relinquish their tight hold on their speculative favorites. Pittsburgh Coal dropped back to 54, against yesterday's price of 59¾, and Marine preferred lost a portion of its recent gains.

An advance in the popular motor stocks under the lead of Chrysler, was a feature of the second hour. Partial and temporary shutting down of the Ford plants is expected to stimulate new business in other low priced cars, with a possible increase in summer business of a number of the well known manufacturers.

Weekly Review Of New York Stocks

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, May 28.—A sharp forward movement in the railroad stocks, simultaneously with a series of moderate reactions in the industrials and specialties, featured the speculative stock market this week.

From the standpoint of general finance and business, the action of the stock market was by no means the most important feature of the week. Following closely on the purchase, a week or so ago, of a large amount of European gold by the American Federal Reserve Bank system came the announcement this week of the sale of $40,000,000 for foreign account, presumably for the bank of France. This is in line with the policy and efforts of French officials to build up a credit in this country against stabilization of the French franc at the proper time.

Business continued active in most departments and in one or two fields at a decidedly high level. Sharp gains in wheat represented more than the jockeying of professional forces in the grain markets, though speculative imagination in Wall Street and other stock trading centers was fired by persistent reports and rumors of "big dealings" in railroad and industrial properties, the effect of which may be to revolutionize operations in certain territories. It was well established that Mr. Loree and his backers are by no means discouraged by the disapproval of their Southwestern railroad-merger plans, and will make immediate efforts to revise them to the satisfaction of the commerce commission. The Nickel Plate merger has not been placed on the shelf and announcement of the revised structure of the consolidation is awaited with great interest. Meanwhile stocks of the Nickel Plate group soared in the market this week, partly as a result of distribution of valuable equities among stockholders, and expectation of further favors of this kind.

It is also apparent to Wall Street that powerful interests have been actively purchasing stocks of representative industrial companies, including Pittsburgh Coal Company. This is the largest coal company in the world, a producer of bituminous coal which might prosper if it were not closed for such long periods by strikes and lockouts of workmen. The stock jumped about 12 points this week and retained all of its new gains.

Transactions well in excess of 2,000,000 shares daily, together with the violent upward swing of stock prices had its own message to conservative forces in Wall Street. To them it seemed to say quite clearly that the market was entering the danger stage, if indeed the end of the hectic bull market was not already in sight. Of course, when powerful competing financial interests enter the market to acquire large volumes of stocks, they are not interested in market fluctuations but in assuming an active participation in the management of the enterprises.

Various specialty stocks displayed exceptional strength in the market this week and price gains of 2 to 15 points were recorded in these speculative sky-rocketers. Commodity markets were firm, money in good supply and rediscount rates unchanged.

Captain Lindbergh Thanks Parisians For Their Kindness

Drops Note Pinned To Tiny American Flag From Plane As He Soars Over City

(International News Service)

PARIS, May 28.—"Ten thousand thanks for the kindness of Paris." This was Captain Lindbergh's farewell to Paris, in the form of a typed note attached to a tiny American flag which he dropped as he flew over the city.

Whether by design or not it is a peculiar fact that the flag fell in the Place De La Concorde.

London Getting Lindbergh Fever

Prepares To Welcome American Flying Hero On Arrival

By H. K. REYNOLDS.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 28.—London is geting the Lindbergh fever.''

This staid old city which is not given to enthusiasm, is whipping itself into a frenzy in anticipation of the visit of the American airman, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh and it appears that he will receive a welcome such as London has rarely given a visitor before.

Newspapers are devoting columns to Lindbergh's plans while in London and the railroads and bus services are anouncing extra facilities for transportation to Croydon tomorrow to welcome the hero. It is estimated that fully 50,000 people will be on the field when Lindbergh touches his landing gear to English soil.

Embassy officials are having a difficult time on arranging Lindbergh's program, for there is too little time for the many functions which have been proferred in his honor. An effort is being made to leave most of one day entirely free to Lindbergh may explore London privately.

Lindbergh has transformed Paris according to the Evening News Paris correspondent who today sent a dispatch stating that "the old Paris atmosphere, heroic, lighthearted and warm, which existed at the end of the war has returned."

"Americans go about with heads in the air wheras in recent years they have subdued all that was American about them in order not to attract attention to their nationality" said this correspondent. "Lindbergh has changed all that. Americans are as popular as when they came to the rescue during the war.

"Lindbergh will cast the same spell over London."

S. O. S. Signals Believed Sent By Rookie Operator

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 28.—Faint S O S signals were picked up by naval communications late last night and twice all radio stations in the east were silenced in the belief that a vessel might be in distress off the coast but ,it was stated today, no tangible information was obtained. This led to the conclusion that an unskilled or excited radio operator had flashed the signals.

Five Year Contract Given Mather Bros.

Contract Is Let For School Rings And Pins To Local Jewelers

It was announced today that Mather Bros. Company, one of the older and leading jewelry firms of the city, has been awarded a five year contract to furnish the rings and pins for the graduating class of New Castle high school during that period of time.

The design used in both the ring and pin is special and for use in this school alone and Mather Bros. Company in securing the contract did so in the face of competition from numerous other dealers.

As a result of the contract being awarded locally, one of the largest orders for school rings placed in the United States, has been forwarded to the manufacturers and will be delivered within the next two weeks. The number ordered was 350. Deliveries will be made during the five year period, twice a year and at the time when classes are graduated from the high school here.

A description of the rings, pins and design and what is symbolized follows:—

The ring proper is of the signet type and represents an extremely high expression in medallic art. The top comprises an oval seal, which in the future is to be used as the standard school seal, not only on rings and pins, but in all other instances of printing, engraving or embossing where a seal is required. In the center of the seal are three symbols of education, the book, the lamp and the scroll. On the scroll appears the school motto in the two Latin words, "Perge modo", which translated means "Always forward". Running below the three symbols of education appears a ribbon bearing the state name, Pennsylvania. Surrounding this in an oval border appear the words, New Castle High School, and the numeral, 1876. The wording, New Castle High School has been cut in the famous Biblical, Old English, text, commemorating to a certain degree the fact that New Castle derived its name from the city of New Castle, England. The 1876 is the date of the founding of the New Castle High school.

Appearing on one shank of the ring is the head of the goddess Minerva. A beautiful statue of this goddess stands in the hallway of New Castle High school and it is around her that many of the legends and rituals of the school are built. For a reason not exactly known to strangers, she occupies a very warm place in the hearts of all students at the school.

On the other shank of the ring appears modeled an exact replica of the entrance to the beautiful high school building. Both the head of the goddess Minerva and the entrance to the building are enveloped in the spread wings of the American eagle and stand over the numeral of the individual class, all of which crest the shining keystone of the state of Pennsylvania.

In brief analysis this emblem stands for the following: it is first symbolic of the year in which the student became a senior. It is next symbolic distinctly of New Castle high school, of the state of Pennsylvania, of the United States of America, making it a national, state, city and school class ring.

Marine Captain Slays Bandit In Nicaraguan Town

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Nicaragua has one less "bad man" today.

A pistol duel between Gen. "Pancho" Cabulla and Capt. W. P. Richards, U. S. Marine corps, resulted in the killing of the bandit chief, according to advices to the Navy department. Richards, a crack shot, acted in self defense, the reports indicated.

Cabulla was one of the two Guerrilla chiefs who refused to disarm in the general disarmament forced by the United States. He is said to have been repudiated by both sides in the recent revolution.

Yesterday, according to navy advices, he rode into the town of Chinadega and began to shoot up the place. He is said to have been intoxicated. Capt. Richards went in quest of him and in the duel that followed shot Cabulla dead. Richards' was unwounded.

A board of inquiry probably will be appointed to investigate and render a formal opinion in the case.

UNCLE SAM'S GREATEST AMBASSADOR

Few More Boys Can Still Enrol For Citizen's Camp

Captain Craig Says Few More Can Be Sent From Lawrence County

What a month's training in the Citizen's Military Training Camps can do for the morale and physique of a boy is vividly shown by the following extract from a special sanitary report rendered by Major W. E. Dear of the Medical Corps on the camp at Fort Eustis in July 1925.

Captain Melvin Craig has just received this report from the headquarters of the Third Corps Area of the United States Army C. M. T. C. office at Baltimore, Maryland.

Although the Lawrence county quota is quite well filled there is room for several other boys to enter if they apply at once says Captain Craig. Any one wishing to apply should get in touch with him at once in the Safe Deposit and Trust building.

The report of Major Dear is as follows:

As an illustration of the high individual morale and excellent physical condition attained, mention should be made of the march to Yorktown, Virginia, when on July 20th the entire student body, carrying rifles and light packs, marched a distance of 10 miles to Yorktown and, in the afternoon engaged in maneuvers over a distance of another six miles. Not a boy fell out, next morning they marched back and not a boy left his place, in the ranks. The same afternoon they were weighed as a part of the physical examination and though depleted by two days of the hardest sort of work and a night in bivouac showed an average increase in weight for the month of 1.77 pounds. Perhaps the best idea of the sort of stuff some of these boys were made of can be gotten from an incident told by Major Hewitt, Medical Corps, the Surgeon for the C. M. T. C. A boy applied to the dispensary for treatment, his eye closed by an extensive swelling over the whole side of his face. Inquiry developed the information that while bearing the colors and standing at attention a large bumble bee alighted on his face and proceeded to sting him unmercifully. Major Hewitt asked the boy why he had not knocked the bee off with his disengaged hand. His answer, a modestly uttered classic, "How Could I? I was bearing the colors."

If the C. M. T. C. can in the period of its brief association inculcate in an average American boy such pure, simple and fervid adherance to an ideal it, as an institution, is one in which the American Nation, should have a just pride.

New Wilmington Loses Athletes

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., May 28.—When New Wilmington High seniors received their diplomas at the commencement exercises Thursday evening, a large group of athletes faded from the scope of the high school's athletic horizon.

Chief among those who received the sheepskins was Paul James, captain of both the football and basketball teams during the past seasons. During his high school course Paul, a stockily built chap, had been an all-around athlete. In football he held down the fullback position and could crack a line as hard as any high school lad in the district. He played guard in basketball and was one of the big reasons why the 1926-27 team copped Lawrence county class B honors.

Football men who graduated were: Theodore Anderson, Matthew Gilliland, Howard Hover, John Lewis, Joseph Ligo and John Worrall.

Basketball loses Paul James and Hugh Chapin.

The girls' basketball team was also hard hit. Miss Florence Minner, a star of the blue and gold sextets for four years, was graduated, as were Alice Bell, Marian Robinson and Margaret Smith.

County Convention At Enon Valley To Eclipse Many Others

Extra Interesting Features Being Arranged For Sessions June 9

The 89th Convention of the Lawrence County Sunday School Association which is to be held at the Enon Valley Presbyterian church Thursday, June 9, gives promise of being one of the best, if not the best that has ever been held in the county.

The program is an especially constructive one containing as it does, speakers of national reputation, Sabbath School efficiency experts and helpful conference periods.

Especially worthy of mention is the speaker of the evening, Rev. P. H. Welshimer, pastor of the First Christian Church of Canton, Ohio, who has the distinction of being the pastor of the largest Sabath School in the United States which was built up largely through his efforts.

One of the features of the afternoon session will be a dramatization of the life of Paul, by Rev. Sanuel L. Maxwell, pastor of the Epworth Church. This dramatization was given at an evening service of the Epworth church last winter and was unusually well received. The object of this dramatization will be to show how such presentations can be used in the Sabbath School to good advantage in order to fix in the minds of the scholars, Biblical cnaracters, stories and truths.

The representatives of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association who will be present, in addition to the State President Percy L. Craig of our own county, will be the State Administrative Superintendent, Rev. Louis Aber of Scranton and the State Young Peoples Associate Superintendent, Miss Letitia Brown whose home is in Ellwood City and who has been doing splendid work since she recently accepted the position.

Delegates who will attend the convention may be confused as to the time unless they remember that the program is being run on Eastern Standard time as this is the time being used at Enon Valley as well as other rural communities of the county.

ABE MARTIN On Vacations

TEMPORARY SEPARATIONS

Th' actual season fer vacations is quite a ways off, but th' season fer talkin' about vacations is here an' much that we hear relates ther to. I don't know how th' vacation idee got started, how an' when it originated, but it's certainly made some record-breakin' strides, fer t'day nobuddy seems t' be too poor t' go wherever they durned please, or t' be too indispensable t' return whenever they d—d please. People used t' git vacations, but t'day they take 'em. Vacations used t' be fer deservin' people, people who'd worked an' tugged an' earned 'em. Vacations wuz respites from toil, periods o' rest an' diversion fer th' overworked an' rundown, a sort of a yearly prize fer them that labored an' produced somethin'. Vacations used t' be spent in various ways, fishin', Niagary Falls, layin' around home, visitin' fond relatives, paintin' th' house, or buildin' a chicken coop. T'day th' vacation is an established institution, an' like ever' other blessin' or privilidge, th' undeservin' seem t' monopolize it. Shirks seem t' git th' most out o' vacations. They go further, see more, an' spend less than those who're entitled t' 'em, an' they return t' ther tasks twice as worthless as they wuz when they left 'em. Poor, run down, deservin' workers who take vacations, don't git very fer. They seem t' be as befuddled an' helpless when they hain't workin' as a liberated canary bird, an' they allus git back from a vacation a week too soon. Folks who'er interested in ther work never think about vacations unless ther doctors suggest it, an' then they act like they were at Niagary Falls against ther will, an' they think too much about th' shop t' even look out o' th' car windows. "Some day I'll take a reg'lar vacation," an' some o' them do, fer they git what Dr. Mopps calls "business livers," that is ther livers git hard an' flinty thro' arduous routine, close application t' business, too many doughnuts, an' not enough stirrin' around. All workers, even stallers, shirkers, an' those who hold positions, should have intervals o' diversion, change o' scene an' action, t' keep ther minds an' insides alert an' functionin'. Dr. Mopps says people don't walk enough. Walkin's th' great natural exercise, an' folks should only be too glad t' walk home from an' auto ride, he says, an' while we may be vexed an' mortified, an' unable t' realize it at th' time it's a fine tonic, an' worth all it costs in shoe leather. "Compulsory an' separate vacations twice or three times a year would bust up our divorce courts in no time," declares Dr. Mopps. "If ther's anything in th' world that needs an' occasional shake up it's th' awful, irksome routine o' married life, a life worse, I should say, than bein' th' railroad ticket agent at Bunker Hill, Indianny, all o' on'es days. Wives, specially, who'er naturally more refined an' sensitive, an' more susceptible t' inerti, should cry out fer these intervals o' separation when they could take a rest up fer removed from those who've enslaved 'em."

Paris Hop To Create Demand For Air Route, Expert Says

By CHARLES P. STEWART.
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch, New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Bill MacCracken, Secretary of Commerce Hoover's aviation assistant-in-chief, isn't so much overpowered by Charlie Lindbergh's 33-hour and 29-minute New York-Paris hop.

Not that Bill undervalues Charlie's feat; only he was expecting it—if not by Charlie, then by somebody else pretty quick.

But what Mac really is steamed up over is this:

He calculates that that flight has jumped trans-Atlantic aviation ahead until it's almost with us right now.

Bill knows better than anybody that Charlie's trip, in itself, didn't prove anything as to overseas commercial flying.

Just because Lindbergh took a sporting chance and won, regular inter-continental passenger transportation by air isn't in a material sense, advanced an inch; Bill doesn't think it is. He's aware that such voyages are quite as risky as they were before. He doesn't consider it any cinch that Charlie himself could do it again.

But the pyschological effect—that's what Bill looks at.

That flight of Charlie's as Bill sees it has created a demand—a demand for a trans-Atlantic passenger service via the air.

He's a great believer in the theory that a demand breeds a supply.

It took the offer of a reward to tempt the first birdman across the ocean. Henceforward, Bill gambles it will be the other way about—passengers will be only too anxious to pay fares.

And never was fare tendered, Bill holds, that didn't darned pronto to find somebody ready to take it up.

* * *

The commerce department has seen no probability any of the time, that non-stop trans-oceanic flights ever would pay, for the simple reason that a plane can't carry enough fuel for so long a voyage and have room for much of anything or anybody else.

"But with "seadromes' to stop at and replenish!—that's different.

The only things lacking are the "dromes" and Bill MacCracken reminds us that formation of a company to furnish them was being considered before Lindbergh's flight was three days old.

* * *

As for safety, the commerce department everlastingly repeats this:

Don't mix military and commercil aviation.

The very qualities that makes a plane safe for commercial purposes make it dangerous for militarry use and vice versa.

A commercial plane needs stability and wing-spread and carrying capacity, not only for safety but to make it pay. Such a plane's comparatively slow and hard to steer.

A military plane must go like lightning, twist and dodge and slide and squirm, respond to a touch and the nearer it is to the size of a postage stamp the better. it's a chancy thing to fly of course, but a dangerous plane's the military aviator's best defense.

Furthermore, safety's a commercial pilot's first consideration; a militarly pilot's last

A commercial flyer's duty to save his plane is as binding on him as a merchant mariner's duty to save his ship. A military flyer's duty is to raise particular hades at any cost to his plane and himself.

"Just you crash and see what you get" is the last implied warning that rings in a commercial birdman's ears as he takes off. "Death or glory" is the military aviator's motto as he soars into the air.

If Lindbergh did not know it, some prohibition folks plan to ask him a few questions when he gets home. Cables say he drank his first champagne in Paris.

Ambassador Herrick will get it worse yet. He's accused of advising Charlie to drink it.

Memorial Day

Thousands of Flags will be waving in deference to young American men who met brave deaths on different battle fields. Some of those who perished fought for America's independence; some for the preservation of a fine ideal; those we know best gave their lives in the cause of democracy.

Not one of these men perished in vain, nor will any of them cease to endure in the memory and respect of living men.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY.

The golden wedding celebration of Mr .and Mrs. George Ringer was held at their home in Jackson township, Tuesday May 24. Some 70 or more invited guests were present. The dinner was served in the Jackson Grange hall. The large wedding cake which contained the two dates, May 24, 1877 and May 24, 1927 was baked by a neighbor, Mrs. Roy Taylor. After the dinner was over Mr. and Mrs. Ringer were remarried by Rev. Mr. Donaldson of Massilion, O., a relative of the family Mr. and Mrs. Ringer lave four sons and two daughters. The neighbors gathered at the home in the evening and an old- fashioned serenade was held and congratulations extended by their many neighbors and friends.
